R. R. QUAY MAY BE APPOINTED

There Is Much Likelihood That He Will Succeed His Father in Senate.

GOVERNOR FRIENDLY

Major Quay Is of Opinion That His Brother Would Accept Short-Term Appointment.

BEEN DISCUSSED AT BEAVER

The appointment of Richard R. Quay as the successor of his father in the senate of the United States would not come as a surprise. There is considerable reason for believing that Gov. Pennypacker contemplates the payment of such a compliment.

It is known that the matter was discussed in the Quay home before and since the death of the senator. While the son has not said that he would accept the honor, information comes from Major A. G. C. Quay that his brother would probably agree to serve for the unexpired term of the father, but would hardly enter into a contest for the full term.

Senator Cameron, Richard Quay and Gov. Pennypacker are three men who are in possession of knowledge concerning the desires of the senator as to his successor. It is believed that the governor will be inclined to do everything that it within his power toward granting any request his friend may have made.

Purely as a matter of sentiment, the the governor may decide to proffer the short term appointment to Mr. Quay. It is understood that such action would be pleasing to the Quay family and would consider it a mark of respect to the memory of the senator.

Maj. Quay Goes East.

Major Quay went to Philadelphia on the 10 o'clock train last night. He said that he had heard considerable talk about the probability of his brother being appointed for the unexpired term of his father. When asked if he thought whether the proffer of the appointment by the governor would be accepted, he replied that the compliment would be accepted. He admitted that previous to the death of his father and since there had been some offhand discussion by the family of the succession of the son to the seat in the senate. It was gathered from the major that if his brother were appointed, he would probably not be a candidate for the full term. Major Quay will remain in Philadelphia until Monday when he will return to Beaver.

It can also be authoritatively stated that Insurance Commissioner Durham is inclined to follow any wish that Senator Quay may have had concerning his successor. Just before Mr. Durham went to California there was a general conference at which it was decided that Senator Quay was to be accorded an unanimous re-election next January. Since then there has been no discussion of the successorship in which the insurance commissioner participated. When Mr. Durham reaches Philadelphia he will endeavor to learn the last requests of Senator Quay.

Movements of Mr. Durham.

Mr. Durham was expected in Pittsburgh last night, but early in the afternoon it was found that he had left Chicago at 10:05 o'clock a. m., and would reach Pittsburgh by way of the Panhandle route at 2:45 this morning. He would then continue his journey to Philadelphia reaching there about 12:50 o'clock this afternoon.

One of the commissioner's friends said that he had arranged his plans so that he could go through Pittsburgh without fear of disturbance, and that the Panhandle route was selected so that some people who are camping along the Fort Wayne will be avoided.

During Mr. Durham's stay in Chicago Thursday he had an opportunity to see some Pennsylvanians and discuss the senatorship with them. It was there gathered that the commissioner is at first disposed to follow any request made by Senator Quay, if he can be satisfied of its authenticity. With such considerations disposed of the desires of Senator Penrose will be next to receive attention. He gave no indication that he had reached any conclusion as to whom he would agree upon, except to say that the successor of Senator Quay should be generally acceptable to the organization.

Senator Flinn Was Busy.

Senator Flinn returned from Philadelphia yesterday morning and spent the day in conference with a number of men prominent in Republican politics. He had nothing to say for publication. Late in the afternoon he had a long talk with County Chairman Ford, City Chairman Leslie, Arch Mackrell, Fred W. Edwards and Thomas G. McClure. After the meeting the senator said "we were just talking it over." Last night he was down town conferring with some of the men he had been with during the afternoon.

Invitations are out for a conference in Atlantic City Sunday. It is probable that Senator Flinn will be present to meet Mr. Durham, Senator Penrose and others. Another who will look in on that conference is Senator W. H. Andrews of New Mexico who is still being consulted on Pennsylvania politics. The impression prevails that while there will be a good deal of discussion at the seashore during the next few days, no definite steps toward agreeing upon a successor to Senator Quay may be taken for a week or two. It will be necessary to first learn what Gov. Pennypacker intends to do.

Under the constitution the governor does not have to be in great haste about the convening of the legislature. He can appoint a senator and then wait until toward the close of the year to call the lawmakers together if he should decide that he has to convene that body.

FATHER TAKES PHIPPS GIRLS

SCENE WITH MOTHER

Startling Incident in Sensational Legal Proceedings Now Pending.

TROUBLE STARTED IN DENVER

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, June 3.

Lawrence Cowle Phipps, a Pittsburgh millionaire and philanthropist, caused his two young daughters to be secretly taken by force from the rooms of their mother in the Hotel Netherland early this morning and fled. He is now somewhere between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Phipps, as soon as she learned that the children had been removed, attired herself and pursued husband and children to the Pennsylvania railroad station in Jersey City, where she boarded a train in which they were seated.

Her attorney, J. Campbell Thompson, demanded that the police arrest the husband as a kidnaper, but the guardian of the law refused to have anything to do with what they termed a "family disagreement," and Mr. Phipps and his children were permitted to continue their journey.

Demands Custody of Children.

Mrs. Phipps will insist upon the custody of the children, it is reported, alleging that she was to have their control through a private agreement. She and her attorney this afternoon visited the district attorney's office to see what other action might be taken.

This brings to light an estrangement which had for the last year been hinted at as existing, but was masked by those concerned. Lawrence C. Phipps is the son of a deceased clergyman and a nephew of Henry Phipps of the United States Steel Corporation and also the well-known philanthropist. It is said that he has a fortune of $20,000,000. He has in the last four years lived in luxurious style, and at the same time has devoted substantial sums to charities. Among his benefactions have been the establishment of camps and retreats in the west for the treatment of tuberculosis. He made frequent trips to Colorado in the interests of his favorite project.

Second Wife a Beauty.

Mrs. Phipps, who is his second wife, was Miss Genevieve W. Chandler. She is a beautiful woman, and their marriage six years ago was a brilliant society affair in Pittsburgh. Two children whose custody is now in dispute, were born to them, Dorothy Chandler, aged five and Emma Loomis, aged two and a half.

It is reported that the estrangement between Mr. and Mrs. Phipps occurred in Denver, Col., more than a year ago. An arrangement was made, however, through which they kept up the semblance of domestic felicity, and it is the contention of Mrs. Phipps that a private agreement was made that she should have the custody of her two children, Mr. Phipps providing for his other two children by a previous marriage.

Both husband and wife had lived in the same house until two weeks ago, when Mrs. Phipps started for New York alone, saying that she intended to take a little recreation.

Arrival of the Father.

She went to the Hotel Manhattan and later sent for the two children. She went last Monday night to the Hotel Netherlands, where she engaged apartments. Mr. Phipps arrived in New York last Wednesday and went to the Hotel Manhattan. Not finding his wife there he traced her to the Netherlands, where last Thursday he vainly pleaded that if she would not return, she would at least permit the children to go with him.

Upon Mrs. Phipps' refusal, a determined effort was made to get control of the girls. Detectives appeared in the neighborhood of the hotel, and negotiations evidently were in progress between them and two maids in the employ of Mrs. Phipps. Now that it is all over, reports are in circulation that great sums of money were offered for the friendly aid and co-operation of the two white-capped nurses.

Carefully Planned Plot.

Arrangements were made by a detective connected with a private agency which resulted in the execution of a carefully-planned plot. The detectives' activities began as early as 4 o'clock this morning, when two of them gained access to the hotel, and shortly after 5 o'clock the children and the detectives were taken

DURHAM REACHES HIS HOME TODAY

Will Do Nothing Regarding Senatorship Until He Sees Penrose.

MAY CONSULT GOVERNOR

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Press Building.
PHILADELPHIA, PA., June 3.

While not venturing to predict even privately who will be chosen to succeed the late Senator Quay as leader, organization men in this city consider the statement by Insurance Commissioner Durham that Senator Boies Penrose is the logical successor, as deeply significant.

Political circles interpret Mr. Durham's declaration as notice that he will favor a candidate for senator who will work harmoniously with Senator Penrose. The loyalty of Mr. Durham to Senator Penrose has never been questioned, and it is likely to prove an important factor in the present situation.

Mr. Durham will arrive in Philadelphia tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock and it is expected that he will spend his first few hours here with his family, who have not seen him since last December. Accompanying Mr. Durham are Register of Wills Joseph H. Klemmer, and Assistant City Solicitor Robert Brannan.

Anticipating that Mr. Durham might possibly arrive in Philadelphia today, there were a number of Allegheny county politicians on hand to meet him. They were not, however, the representatives of the Allegheny leaders most likely to figure in the conferences on the senatorship next week. There were also a number of leaders from nearby counties in town to see Mr. Durham and they, too were disappointed.

Mr. Durham probably will go to Atlantic City late tomorrow afternoon, and is likely to remain out of town until Monday, when he expects to meet Senator Penrose.

It may be stated authoritatively that not until Mr. Durham and Senator Penrose have conferred and then consulted with the Western Pennsylvania leaders, will anything of a definite nature be known concerning Senator Quay's successor. It is not unlikely that Mr. Durham and Senator Penrose will have a friendly talk with Gov. Pennypacker during the next few days, to ascertain how the governor believes the vacancy should be filled.

It will not be known before that time how the governor will proceed.

The Mikado's Heavy Guns Now Frown Down on the Beleaguered City.

YAMAGATA NOW IN COMMAND

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, June 3.—The Rome correspondent of the Central News telegraphs:

"A Tokyo dispatch to the Giornale d'Italia says that the Japanese have occupied the first line of the outer fortifications of Port Arthur 'after a feeble resistance.'"

The correspondent at Tokyo of the News Agency Liberas says that four divisions of Japanese troops have occupied Kwan-Tung heights, on which they emplaced heavy artillery dominating Port Arthur.

The same correspondent adds that the Russian squadron attempted a sortie but was forced to return, being threatened by the Japanese fleet.

LIAO-YANG, June 3.—There are persistent rumors that another great battle is in progress near Port Arthur. Continuous cannonading has been heard from the south. An additional force of 15,000 Japanese is reported to have landed at Taku-Shan.

CHEFOO, June 3.—(4:30 p. m.)—Steamers which have arrived here from Niuchwang report that firing in the vicinity of Port Arthur was heard last night.

SHAN-HAI-KWAN, June 3.—Reports of hard fighting reach here from Kai-Ping. A column of 20,000 Russians, under Gens. Samsonoff and Stackelberg, have been pushing south with the idea of creating a diversion in favor of Port Arthur and inflicting as much damage as possible on the Japanese, who it was not believed were anticipating such a move.

They found the Japanese fully prepared and in much stronger force than was anticipated. Several times the Russian and Japanese troops were in contact. In each instance the Japanese were in superior force and the Russian commanders were compelled to withdraw. The Russians now are reported at Kai-Ping.

YAMAGATA IN COMMAND OF ALL FIELD FORCES

LONDON, June 4.—A dispatch from Tokyo to the Daily Express says that Field Marshal Yamagata has been appointed commander-in-chief of all the forces in the field. He is expected to proceed to the Liao-Tung district shortly.

PENNSYLVANIA LAD DIES FIGHTING FOR JAPANESE

MONONGAHELA, Pa., June 3.—Word was received here today by Mrs. Jacob Strouse that her son Walter had been killed in Manchuria. He left Pittsburgh several months ago and a letter from him last week announced that he had enlisted in the Japanese army. This was the last heard from him until the news of his death came.

NEGRO VENDETTA IN MISSISSIPPI

Two White Men and Three Blacks Have Been Killed.

RESULT OF A SECRET VOW

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Greenville, Miss., June 3.—As a result of a fight which occurred on the Sims and Williams' plantation at Trail lake, Miss., 30 miles east of here, last night, John Sims and his manager, named Cato, were killed by negroes and three of the negroes have been killed also. It is feared further trouble may ensue between the whites and blacks.

The slaughter started about 10 o'clock last night, when Sims and Cato were shot down in their store by a negro named Sam Clark. Sims was engaged in checking up his cash when Clark came in. Before he could make any kind of a move Clark raised a Winchester and fired, the shot taking effect in the back. Sims died instantly.

Clark immediately turned on Cato, the manager, and shot him in the right side. Cato staggered out of the back of the store and as he reached the door a negro convict guard named Van Horn, who was apparently in waiting, struck him over the head with a rifle. Cato died at 7 o'clock this morning.

News of the tragedy was sent to Greenville and Sheriff John Crouch with a posse went to the scene. Van Horn and Clark had made their escape before the posse arrived, but the trail of Van Horn was found and he was tracked about a quarter of a mile into the wood. Here another negro convict guard named Mayfield interfered with the posse and he was shot down in his tracks.

Van Horn was captured and taken to Leland, 14 miles distant, where he was kept in jail all night under a strong guard, but at 8:30 this morning he was taken out and lynched by a mob.

While the sheriff and posse were busy with Van Horn, Clark returned to the Sims store with the intention, it is said, of killing Buck Williams, the other partner; the bookkeeper, named Crow, who was also at work, and others. Crow had armed himself, as had also a negro who worked about the place, named Aaron Fuller. When Clark made his appearance he was shot and killed by both Crow and Fuller.

It is believed at Trail Lake that the shooting is the outcome of a meeting held in the vicinity of Trail Lake by a negro secret society.

KANSAS CITY, June 3.—Nine persons are reported to have been killed and many injured in a collision of passenger trains on the Missouri Pacific railroad near Martin City, 15 miles south of Kansas City. The trains, which met head on, were the westbound Colorado limited No. 1, and the eastbound Hoisington, Kansas, accommodation, No. 26.

A message received by Missouri Pacific officials here ordered them to send a relief train as soon as possible and to get all the surgeons obtainable.

Newspaper men were not permitted on the relief train which left about 11 o'clock tonight and details of the accident cannot be learned until the return of the train with the dead and injured.

BIGELOW WILL LOSE NO TIME

Proposes to Let Filtration and Hump Contracts in August.

DISPUTE ABOUT LAW

LARKIN DEMANDS FAIR VOTE

"The contracts for the construction of the filtration plant and the removal of the hump will be let and the work begun by September 1," said Director Bigelow yesterday. "This will be a busy summer for councils. They will probably meet almost every week, instead of taking vacations. I have decided to take no vacation this summer. I had a pretty good rest at Atlantic City a couple of weeks ago, which will do me for the summer."

"One contract for the filtration plant and one contract for the hump will be sufficient," said the director. "I know that Dr. McCandless, when he was director, proposed to divide the job for the filtration plant into seven or eight contracts, but it is my opinion that it would be better to let the whole job in one contract. If half a dozen or more contractors were doing the work and one contractor was delayed for any reason, he might delay the other contractors, and there would be more or less friction all the time. All of this would be avoided if one contractor had all the work and he was made responsible. He could hurry it along. One contractor can easily cut down the hump."

To Let Contracts in August.

Contractor James H. McQuaide, who will be a bidder for the filtration and hump contracts, said yesterday that he expected the filtration and hump contracts to be let in August, or a few weeks after the vote by the people on the bond issues. This agrees with what Director Bigelow said yesterday. Bigelow's plan is to advertise for bids immediately after the people have approved the bond issues, which he expects them to do, and also to let the contracts before the bonds are sold.

There is a serious dispute among the city officials whether Bigelow can legally let the contracts before the bonds are sold, but he claims that the city law department supports him in his contention that it can be done. He argues that if the bonds were sold first and the letting of the contracts delayed until money from the bond sale was in the city treasury, that if the bids were below the bond issue, the surplus would have to remain in the treasury and could not be used for any other purpose because the bond ordinances specifically state so.

Larkin May Make Trouble.

For instance, if the filtration contract was let for $4,000,000, and $5,000,000 bonds were first sold there would be a surplus of $1,000,000 in the city treasury, which would lie there without any use for it. He claims that the proper method is to get bids and let the contract, and then issue the bonds for the amount of the contract.

This position is contrary to the custom of the city for many years past, although the right to do so has never been legally tested. Controller Larkin had always demanded that the money should be first in the city treasury before he approved a contract, and it is probable that he will adhere to this ruling in the case of the filtration and hump bond projects.

Bigelow holds that while the courts have decided that no contracts can be let until estimates of the whole cost are known and the money available, he claims that this does not require the money to be actually in the city treasury. The controller's office will likely take the position that while Bigelow may advertise for bids he must delay the letting of the contracts until the money is on hand. The controller took this stand this year when the street lighting contract was let.

Larkin Demands Fair Election.

Controller Larkin threatens to refuse to sign the bonds if the administration turns in the payroll to carry the bond election on July 12.

"I will stand no foolishness," said the controller yesterday. "The election must be fair and there must be no interference by any person. The people must have the privilege of voting their honest sentiments."

It is the opinion of Assistant Controller Morrow that the filtration and hump bonds cannot be sold earlier than October. It has taken over three months to put through the recent bond issue of over $1,100,000 for the payment of judgments, claims and assessments against the city. The bonds were awarded to a New York firm a couple of weeks ago, but the money has not yet been paid on the bonds and will not be for several weeks, not until the attorneys for the firm have examined the bonds, the legislation and all matters connected with the bond issue.

Morrow said that it might require more legislation by councils, as the attorneys for bond-buying firms were great sticklers for technicalities.

The mayor will issue separate proclamations for the filtration and hump bond elections. The first proclamation will be published on June 9. Each proclamation will be over three columns long, giving the location of every polling place in the city.

The cost of the bond election on July 12 is estimated at $12,000, which the city will pay out of its contingent fund, a transfer to this fund for this purpose being necessary. As previously published in The Gazette, the county commissioners will conduct the election.

There is a difference of opinion among the city solicitors whether the saloons must close on the day of election, and it is probable that the court will order them closed.

St. Louis Convention to Be Dominated by the Conservatives.

HAVE BIG MAJORITY

The Nebraskan's Ideas Lose Strength by Unit and Two-Thirds Rules.

NO SUPPORT FROM THE SOUTH

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.

Bryanism will have no chance whatever in the St. Louis convention. The action of the Nebraska Democrats in declaring in favor of a reaffirmation of the Kansas City platform will have no influence upon the action of the national convention for the reason that the conservatives already have enough votes to assure the adoption of a sane platform.

Conceding Mr. Bryan all the delegates that have been instructed for Mr. Hearst and counting all those that are shown by the platforms adopted by their state conventions to be in sympathy with him, there will be for a reaffirmation at St. Louis of the Kansas City platform 112 delegates. There will be against any such declaration 506 delegates. Thus it will appear that if every state convention from now should follow Nebraska's lead the conservatives would have a safe working majority of the 906 delegates in the Democratic national convention. The Nebraska convention, therefore, while a testimonial to Mr. Bryan's popularity in his own state, is of no material consequence as indicating what the Democratic platform may be.

Bryanism Loses by Unit Rule.

In conceding Mr. Bryan 112 votes there are counted for him the 20 votes from Kansas and the 20 from California. He will not, in all probability, get a majority of either delegation, but the estimate is made in order to give him the benefit of every doubt. The states and territories which have elected delegations that may vote as will Nebraska are: Kansas, 20; New Mexico, 6; Rhode Island, 6; South Dakota, 6; Nevada, 6; Iowa, 26; California, 20; Oklahoma, 6; Nebraska, 16. Total 112.

The states and territories which have adopted platforms ignoring the last two platforms and declaring for five issues are: New Jersey, 24; Massachusetts, 33; New York, 78; Pennsylvania, 68; Oregon, 8; West Virginia, 14; New Hampshire, 8; Washington, 10; District of Columbia, 6; Michigan, 20; Connecticut, 16; Indiana, 30; Florida, 10; Wisconsin, 26; Montana, 6; South Carolina, 18; Georgia, 26; Alabama, 22; Tennessee, 24; Ohio, 46, and Maryland, 16. Total, 506.

If the unit rule could be broken there would be a number of delegates from a half dozen states who might follow Bryan. But the unit rule has been applied in all the important delegations, and it applies to the vote on the platform as well as to the candidates. Of the 30 states and territories which have chosen their delegates there will be nine members of the resolutions committee favorable to the Nebraska platform and 21 against.

Two-Thirds Rule Also Hurts.

Of the states which remain to be heard from, this proportion will not be materially changed. This will give the conservatives a two-thirds majority on the resolutions committee. It is the enforcement of the unit rule which has swept the ground from under Bryan. The unit rule and the two-thirds rule in Democratic conventions are inseparable.

It was because the two-thirds rule was believed to be favorable to Bryan and Hearst, when the states began the election of delegates, that many of the old Democratic leaders urged its abolition. The results to date indicate that these rules, instead of being favorable to Bryan, have placed him at a distinct disadvantage. He would have a few followers in nearly all the southern delegations, and a still larger proportionate number in Massachusetts and Ohio if the state conventions had not applied the unit rule.

In no large delegation, except that of Iowa, has the unit rule operated to the advantage of Mr. Bryan. It has left him without a vote he can control in any eastern state except Rhode Island, and from the south he will receive no support whatever. The small western states which are bound to him under the unit rule, would have given him a solid vote without it.

NO COMBINATION HAS BEEN MADE, SAYS GUFFEY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, June 3.—Col. James M. Guffey, Democratic national committeeman for Pennsylvania, issued the following statement here tonight:

Since coming to New York I have met a number of gentlemen, prominent in local and national Democratic politics, with whom I discussed in a general way the political situation. I made a statement some time ago that Pennsylvania's delegation, uninstructed and governed by the unit rule, would go to the St. Louis convention ready and willing to join with her sister states in selecting candidates who would bring success to the Democratic party of the country.

From this position we have not changed, and no combination has been or will be entered into by me until after free and full conference with the delegates to the convention at St. Louis.

During the day Col. Guffey conferred with ex-United States Senator James Smith, Jr., of New Jersey; Senator A. P. Gorman of Maryland; William F. Sheehan and August Belmont, two of Chief Justice Alton P. Parker's representatives, and others.

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE C. PHIPPS

OPEN-HEARTH STEEL CHEAPER

Direct Process Believed to Be Invention of James Gayley and Count Mercedes.

DREAM OF THE METALLURGIST

Unusual interest has been stirred up among iron and steel men by the announcement contained in a telegram from New York to The Gazette a few days ago that James Gayley, first vice president of the United States Steel Corporation, has invented a new process of making open-hearth steel. To bring the cost of producing open-hearth below that of Bessemer steel has long been the dream of the metallurgist, and to this end Mr. Gayley and Count Mercedes have been experimenting in a small plant at Braddock for a number of years.

The standing of both of these gentlemen in the iron and steel world is such that whatever they say they have accomplished will be accepted at once as true. Mr. Gayley was for years associated with Mr. Carnegie and is well known here. He was offered the presidency of the Carnegie Steel Company or the vice presidency of the Steel corporation when the latter was formed, and since his choice of the vice presidency he has been repeatedly mentioned as a possible president. His special line is in the ore and furnace ends of the steel business, with which the new invention deals.

Entered Service as Laborer.

Count Mercedes is a graduate of the French Polytechnique institute. He arrived at Homestead many years ago and asked for a position. He was asked what wages he expected and answered, "Four francs a day" (80 cents). He was put to work as a laborer. Now he is considered the leading chemist and metallurgist in the Carnegie Steel Company's service.

The invention which Mr. Gayley and Count Mercedes are credited with making is believed to be a direct open-hearth process. The Carnegie Steel Company makes open-hearth in furnaces of 50-ton capacity. The furnaces are lined with dolomite, which acts as a flux. The mixture of metal is made up of pig iron and scrap steel, fed into the furnaces by electric chargers. Gas is employed for fuel. It is not positively known, but it is believed Mr. Gayley has succeeded in making open-hearth steel by a direct process by using the ore mixtures, thus doing away with the use of pig iron. If this is true, the steel making industry will surely revolutionized.

At present the ore has to be made into pig iron, which costs at present from $8 50 to $10 a ton. Scrap steel costs from $7 50 to $14 a ton, according to analysis of the scrap. If these two elements are eliminated in open-hearth steel making, and the ore made directly into steel, it will do away with the labor at the furnaces and the fuel, which is about three-quarters of a ton of coke for each ton of pig iron.

May Eliminate Limestone.

It may be that limestone, used as a flux in making pig iron, can also be done away with, and the dolomite with which the open furnaces are lined, will be sufficient to flux the iron and steel. This will create a further saving of from 50 cents to $1 a ton, the cost of limestone and the railroad freight rate together. If the experiments along this line have been carried forward successfully, open-hearth can be produced at $10 a ton, whereas now it costs from $14 to $16 a ton.

The Carnegie Steel Company produces it cheaper than any other concern, owing to the fact that the raw material is received at first cost. It may be that the new open-hearth process will reduce steel making lower, but a further knowledge of the process Mr. Gayley has succeeded in utilizing will be necessary before metallurgists can figure on the absolute cost. It has been said that it has been necessary to roast the ores before they are fed into the open-hearth furnace. This being the case, the cost of roasting will have to be added to the cost of smelting the ore in the open-hearth furnace.

FIGHT WAGED BY SCHOOL BOARDS

Deadlocks Exist in Two Allegheny Wards Over Election of Principals.

OTHER MEETINGS WERE QUIET

In the Fourth and Fifth wards of Allegheny deadlocks exist in the school boards over the election of principals. At both schools meetings were held last night but both were adjourned because none of the candidates secured a sufficient number of votes to insure election. In the Fourth ward Prof. I. A. Espey and Prof. J. A. Johnson are the candidates. Each candidate had three members of the board with him at the meeting last night. The old corps of teachers was re-elected.

A similar condition exists in the Fifth ward. There is opposition to the re-election of Prof. H. W. Golden and after several ballots last night the board decided to try again at a meeting next week. The Second ward board held a peaceable meeting and re-elected the old corps of principals and teachers in the three schools. The same conditions prevailed in the Third and Eighth wards.

The O'Hara sub-district school board, Twelfth ward, last night elected the board of officers that served during the past year. The election of teachers was held over until the July meeting.

There was no fight in the Mt. Washington sub-district. Thirty-second ward, the old board being re-elected unanimously. The corps of teachers and janitors will remain the same.

MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE VERDICT AGAINST GIBSON

Jury Believes He Slew Aged Watchman Thomas at Houston Hall.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—After a weak, spasmodic effort to defend himself with the plea of insanity—an effort as hysterical and futile as the rest of his actions since the officers of the law wove a net about him and clinched his guilt with a confession from his own lips of his brutal murder of the aged watchman, William Thomas, at Houston Hall—Lawrence Gibson this afternoon was declared by a jury to be guilty of murder in the first degree.

For four days Gibson's attorney tried to throw around him the haze of imbecility, while the accused West Indian pleaded hard to support the theory by running his hands through his hair, looking wildly and vacantly around, and answering in an incoherent and aimless way the questions asked of him. But no alienist could be found who would swear that he was insane, and even his wife gave as her opinion that he was not crazy.

Hypnotism was urged as a last excuse for Gibson's confession to the detectives, and finally it was argued that, even if he was sane when he struck the weak old man in the student club house, his act was without premeditation and without malice. It took the jury, however, only an hour and three-quarters to settle the matter, and it is understood that their verdict was unanimous on the first ballot.

A motion for a new trial was allowed, with four days for the filing of an argument.

VARLEY OFFERS RANSOM TO MOORISH BANDIT

Conditions Other Than Money, However, Are Insisted Upon by the Brigands.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1904, by New York Herald Co.)

GENEVA, June 3.—A telegram just received from a friend of Mr. Varley, at Tangier, says there is great uneasiness and slight indignation felt by the European population here as America is handing over the direction of affairs to France, which is not especially interested.

Raisouli has sent an ultimatum concerning his demands, and also a time limit for his answer. It is believed the lives of the captives are in the greatest danger, as it is realized that Raisouli is playing his last card to become recognized chief or lose all.

It is reported that Varley has offered to pay the ransom demanded to save the life of Perdicaris and himself, but the brigand lays a greater stress on the other conditions. It is feared neither England nor America realizes the critical state of affairs nor the brigand's determined character.

TOLD THEY ARE TO DIE.

Dusan Melic to Be Hanged July 28, and Nicholas Glazner Hears His Doom.

Gov. Pennypacker yesterday signed the death warrant of Dusan Melic, fixing July 28 for his execution. The warrant will arrive here Monday and Sheriff James W. Dickson will read it to the condemned man. Melic was distressed when he was informed of the fact he was to die. He told his jailers he was too young to die.

Melic killed Policeman Andrew J. Kelly on the Beechwood boulevard October 4, 1903. He had been to a Slavish christening with Mary Lagan. Melic was partly intoxicated. On the way to the girl's house he threatened to kill her if she did not accompany him to a certain speakeasy. The girl called for help and her cries were heard by Policeman Kelly.

As Kelly approached Melic the latter drew a revolver. The officer pulled out his revolver and ordered Melic under arrest. The Slav shot at the officer and the latter returned the fire. Policeman Kelly's bullet went astray, but Melic's bullet lodged in the policeman's breast.

Nicholas Glazner, who is to be hanged on July 21 for the murder of Margaret Hall, was officially notified of his approaching end by Sheriff Dickson at the jail yesterday. The condemned man listened to the reading of the death warrant without betraying any emotion. After he heard his doom he asked to be taken to his cell, declaring that he had nothing to say regarding his execution.

JAPANESE LOST 4,304 MEN STORMING NANSHAN HILL

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

TOKYO, June 3.—(6:50 p. m.)—The total of the Japanese casualties at the battle of Nanshan hill on May 26 is 4,304. They are divided as follows: Thirty-one officers, including one major and five sergeant majors, and 713 non-commissioned officers and men killed; 100 officers, including one colonel, one major, 12 sergeant majors and 3,460 non-commissioned officers and men wounded.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 3.—The Russian losses in the fighting at Kinchau are officially stated to be 30 officers and 700 men killed or wounded. These figures were given in Gen. Stoessel's report, which has reached the war office. It is dated May 28. The method of its transmission to Viceroy Alexieff is not disclosed, but it is presumed it was taken by a Chinese junk to Niuchwang. Evidently it was written under stress, as it was hastily penciled.

Gen. Stoessel reports that, owing to the absence of the support of warships against the Japanese artillery fire at the time of the final assault on the Russian positions at Nanshan hill, during the evening of May 26, he at 8 o'clock gave the order to blow up the guns and retire. The general explains that the order was only partially executed, as the enemy's flank movements necessitated promptness in retreat, which he says was carried out with great coolness, thus accounting for the smallness of the Russian losses. Gen. Stoessel also says the enemy's losses must have run far into the thousands, the Japanese mortality in storming Nanshan hill being frightful.

Gen. Stoessel pays a high tribute to the Russian troops, and refers in terms of the warmest praise to the skill and courage displayed by Gen. Fock, whom he recommends for the St. George's cross. He does not mention that Fock was wounded, from which the general staff assumes that the report to this effect was untrue.

As Gen. Stoessel specially praises a regiment which was not in Gen. Fock's division, the general staff concludes therefrom that five regiments, or about 12,000 men, were engaged on the Russian side.

WOMEN WITH AN AUTO CHARGED WITH THEFT

Chicago Police Believe They Have Uncovered a Band of Fur Robbers.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 3.—In the search for two stylishly dressed women, who are experts in operating an automobile, the Chicago police believe that they have uncovered a band of fur thieves who are operating in every section of the country and who dispose of their valuable plunder through a central clearing house in New York city.

In the eastern city the "clearing house" has been uncovered through the confession of Samuel Fliarsky, silent partner in the defunct United States Fur Company of that city, who, with Emanuel Sidman, president of the concern, has been charged with larceny.

Fliarsky, in his confession to Assistant District Attorney Garvan of New York city, charges that Sidman had professional thieves in his employ; that these thieves were supplied with money and told that the United States Fur Company was organized expressly to get rid of the plunder. The ring is said to have cleared up millions of dollars.

The cleverest thieves in the country are held to be members of the gang now operating in Chicago. Among the boldest of the number have been two women, who have made use of an automobile to flee with furs they have stolen.

Their latest victim is Miss K. E. Wilson, a furrier on the fourth floor of 64 Wabash avenue. Articles valued at $2,000 were stolen from her establishment Wednesday night, following a visit from the two women late that afternoon. The stolen property consisted of an India shawl valued at $700 and two sealskin jackets worth $500.

MUCH OF KANSAS IS UNDER WATER

TEXAS, TOO, IS A SUFFERER

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

KANSAS CITY, June 3.—Reports from Central Kansas received tonight show that the amount of damage caused by heavy rains and cloudbursts in that district were underestimated. The worst floods are in the valleys of the Neosho, Cottonwood, Verdigris, Arkansas, Little Arkansas and Walnut rivers.

In Wichita dynamite is being used tonight in an attempt to blow up the dam in the Little Arkansas river, which has risen over a foot this afternoon and very high water has yet to come down that stream. The stock yards is inundated and the residence district on the low ground.

The Cottonwood river is three feet higher than the disastrous flood of last year and the highest ever known. The river extends from bluff to bluff and the rich farming valley stands under water, farm houses being deserted by their occupants who made their way to higher ground.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—A tremendous rainstorm, approaching a cloudburst in its severity, fell here today. At the world's fair grounds the Stadium, where the Amateur Athletic union championships were to be held this afternoon, is a sea of water. The Japanese village, on the Pike, is washed out.

DALLAS, TEX., June 3.—A storm broke over Dallas at 7 o'clock this morning and continued with great force until 5 o'clock. A heavy wind developed into tornado proportions. Several small dwellings in the outskirts were wrecked. The Western Union building was struck and all wire communication was cut off for several hours.

ARKANSAS CITY, KAN., June 3.—A tornado struck Glencoe, a town of 1,000 inhabitants in Payne county, Okla., today, demolishing five residences and destroying the Methodist church. Several persons were hurt, none fatally.

TOPEKA, June 3.—The Santa Fe railway says that this is the worst flood delay ever experienced by the road in Kansas. The main line, however, is less under water from near Florence to Strong City, while the Marion-McPherson, Strong City, Eldorado and Wichita branches are washed out for many miles.

BOY CONFESSED KILLING HIS CRIPPLED MOTHER

Aged Woman Was Slain by Her Son After a Quarrel at Their Home.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

TRENTON, N. J., June 3.—Nathan Sibbett, 14 years old, broke down today after nearly two weeks of stout denial of guilt and confessed to the police that in spite of all his varied and conflicting stories, he was responsible for the death of his aged and crippled mother, Hannah Sibbetts, after a quarrel in their humble home at Jacobs Creek, six miles above this city.

The confession was this afternoon given to the coroner's jury and upon the strength of it the boy was held accountable for the woman's death. Tonight he was arraigned before the county authorities and committed to await the action of the grand jury.

Young Sibbetts' confession came today as a surprise to the police and at a time when they were ready to admit that there was no evidence obtainable to connect him with the crime. His conflicting stories created suspicion against him from the beginning, but all the clues established by them proved valueless in leading to any definite or tangible conclusions concerning the death of Mrs. Sibbtts. # EXPRESS TRAIN DERAILED.

Rains Cause Accident to Baltimore & Ohio Trains Near Finleyville.

The Baltimore & Ohio express, from Cincinnati, due in Pittsburgh at 7:55 p. m., did not arrive last night until 11:45 o'clock, owing to an accident at Finleyville, Pa. The recent rains caused a depression in the tracks just outside of the Finleyville station, at the Eclipse mines, and while the train was running at a leisurely pace the engine, tender, mail and baggage car jumped the track, the engine overturning, but no person was injured.

The engine was put out of commission and being beyond a switch or siding, it was found necessary to send a relief special from Pittsburgh. The relief train was sent out until after 10 o'clock and the passengers from the Cincinnati train were transferred to the three coaches of the special.

The departure of the train for Cincinnati, which leaves Pittsburgh about 8 o'clock, was delayed on account of the accident.

FATHER TAKES THE PHIPPS GIRLS

Mr. Phipps joined the party later, and when the company arrived, shortly after 7 o'clock, at the Twenty-third street ferry of the Pennsylvania railroad, it consisted of three men, two nurses and two children.

Mrs. Phipps, who was aroused, lost no time in giving chase. She hastily arrayed herself, flung a bright red waterproof over her shoulders, and, in a hansom cab drawn by the swiftest horse that could be found in the neighborhood of the hotel, started in pursuit. She did not know where the children had been taken, but she believed that they might have gone to the West Twenty-third street station.

New Jersey Police Aroused.

Mrs. Phipps was informed by the ferrymaster that persons answering the description which she hurriedly gave had crossed several boats in advance of her. She asked the official to send word at once to the Jersey City police to arrest the whole party.

This message was received at police headquarters in Jersey City, where, in the course of a year many such demands are made, and Policeman Boyle was sent to attend to the affair, with the injunction to take no notice of any family row and to apprehend no one unless there was an open violation of the law.

Policeman Boyle, in pursuance of his instructions, made an investigation. He expected to find the party on the next train, which was scheduled to leave the station at 7:50. He could not find them there, but presently discovered the seven descending the steps which lead to Exchange place, Jersey City.

Started in Pursuit.

Mother and officer went to the car starter, and, upon being informed that a car had just gone for Newark, they held a consultation and returned to the station, where they boarded an accommodation train scheduled to depart at 8:16. They had bought tickets for only as far as Newark, for it was their intention to get on an express train there which would take them. They settled in their seats, but found that they were enjoying only a fancied security, for, with her face aglow with indignation, Mrs. Phipps arrived. She was accompanied by a tall, broad-shouldered man, who later described himself as J. Campbell Thompson, an attorney of 62 Wall street.

"Policeman," cried Mrs. Phipps, "this man is taking away my children. I wish you to make him give them back to me at once."

The accommodation train was filled with passengers. Persons arose from their seats and crowded about the group. The children wept and cried.

Children Cried for Their Mother.

"Mamma, do let us go back to mamma." The nurses screamed and the detectives edged nearer to the children.

"These are my children," said Mr. Phipps, "and my wife took them away from their home, and without my consent, brought them to New York. I belong to the west and I shall take them back to my own home, and I shall take them back with me now."

"Arrest this man," said Mrs. Phipps' companion, stepping forward.

"Can't do that," replied Policeman Boyle. "He is the father of the children, isn't he?"

"Yes," was the reply, "but he has no right to them."

"It's a family affair," said the policeman. "It's no business of the police."

"Let no one interfere," commanded Mrs. Phipps' representative, addressing the passengers. "I'll have no interference."

Mrs. Phipps sprang forward, as if to take away the children by main force, and she was held back by the police and the detectives. She upbraided her husband for his subterfuge, vowed she would have the children and declared that she would go on the train wherever they went.

Mrs. Phipps was finally induced to leave the car, although the man who had accompanied her went on the train as far as Newark. His negotiations, however, were not attended with success, and he left the train at that point.

Although it had been the intention of Mr. Phipps to change cars at Newark, he did not alight but journeyed in the direction of Philadelphia on an accommodation.

Mrs. Phipps was met at the station by several relatives, and, weeping and hysterical, she returned to the Hotel Netherland. ALEXANDER DODDS.

Pittsburgh Home Darkened.

Lawrence C. Phipps was formerly prominent in the Carnegie Steel Company and is a nephew of Henry Phipps, Jr., the steel magnate and early partner of Andrew Carnegie. He possesses great wealth and his home, "Grandview," overlooking Fifth avenue, Shadyside, is one of the handsomest in Pittsburgh. In addition he possesses a magnificent establishment in Denver, Col., where the family live a considerable part of the time and where Mr. Phipps founded a great hospital for consumptives.

What became of Mr. Phipps and the two children yesterday could not be discovered here last evening. So far as could be learned, they did not come to Pittsburgh, and while they were expected at "Grandview," the fact of their actual arrival could not be proved. The servants, who alone occupied the house, would not answer questions. The place was closed up early and no response was given to the doorbell.

Investigation last evening showed that legal proceedings have already started between Mr. and Mrs. Phipps in this city. Reed, Smith, Shaw & Beal are the counsel on one side. David Aiken Reed of that firm said last evening:

Attorneys Will Not Talk.

"Please say for us that we refuse absolutely to discuss this case. The nature of the alleged proceedings and professional courtesy to our client forbid any discussion."

Rumor has followed rumor in regard to domestic troubles between Mr. and Mrs. Phipps. They had become reconciled after having, by common report, separated for a considerable period. Last winter they traveled in Europe and three weeks ago they came on from New York to occupy their Pittsburgh mansion for the summer.

Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps was Miss Genevieve W. Chandler of Charlerol, Pa., and is a niece of Mrs. H. Sells McKees, at whose home in Ridge avenue, Allegheny, she was married to Lawrence C. Phipps in 1896 or 1897. The greater portion of their married life they have lived in Denver, Col., where Mr. Phipps purchased one of the finest residences in Colfax avenue the most aristocratic section of the city.

Mrs. Phipps has entertained on a magnificent scale in Denver, and almost every winter took a party of friends in Mr. Phipps' private car to Mexico or portions of the United States. Mrs. Phipps is a second wife.

Lawrence C. Phipps is a son of the Rev. William H. Phipps, who died in December, 1902, and who was a brother of Henry Phipps, Jr., Andrew Carnegie's former partner. The Rev. Mr. Phipps was for many years active in the Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Lawrence Cowle Phipps was his only son.

LARKIN HOLDS UP BIGELOW'S BILLS

He Refuses to Pay for Supplies and Public Work Without Contracts.

DIRECTOR GOES TO COUNCILS

Controller Larkin is a thorn in the flesh to Director Bigelow. Besides assuming a threatening attitude toward Bigelow's filtration and hump projects the controller is spoiling many of his smaller schemes. Larkin yesterday refused to pay a bill of over $500 for some surveying instruments which had been purchased by the department of public works, the controller refusing to honor the bill because the instruments had been purchased without a contract or without advertising for bids, as required by the Wallace act when the amount is $250 or over. Bigelow will now ask councils to pass a special resolution directing the payment of the bill.

Controller Larkin has also refused to pay a bill of $3,900, presented by Contractor James H. McQuaide for the repair of a sewer at Frankstown avenue and Bryant street, Twenty-first ward. The job was done last year. Larkin yesterday gave his reasons for refusing to pay McQuaide's bill.

"One day last summer Supt. E. G. Nicewaner of the bureau of highways and sewers came to me and said that the sewer was broken and unless immediately repaired was liable to seriously damage property. Nicewaner said he would not have time to advertise for bids and I asked him how much the job would cost. He said he did not know, that it might cost $300 or $400 or might cost $1,000. I told him to go ahead, but it was understood that the expense would not exceed $1,000. When the bill came in it was for $3,900 and I promptly refused to pay it. There is a resolution in councils instructing me to pay it. I suppose I will have to pay the bill if councils pass the resolution, but it is dead wrong." The resolution to pay McQuaide is pending in councils. It has passed on second reading.

Controller Larkin yesterday refused finally to pay the salary of H. W. Underwood, an assistant engineer in the filtration bureau. Underwood is on the pay-roll for $125 per month and the controller holds that Underwood cannot claim pay from the city until he has resided here for six months, as required by the charter ordinance. The charter ordinance makes an exception in the case of an expert, but the controller said yesterday that he did not believe an assistant engineer whose salary was only $125 per month could claim to be an expert. Bigelow now intends to put an ordinance in councils to exempt all filtration engineers from the restrictions of the charter ordinance.

MEMBER OF SECOND WARD SCHOOL BOARD RESIGNS

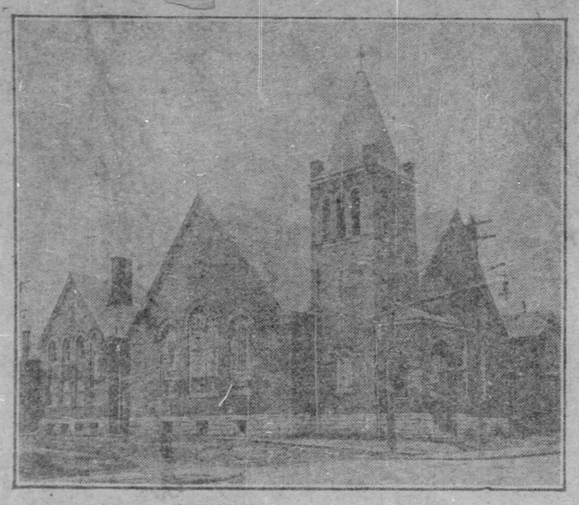
Janitor Charged With Being in Full Control of the Board.

As the result of a stormy session of the Second ward school board, held in the South school, Ross street, last Wednesday evening, Peter Avetta, a member of the board with two years more to serve, resigned yesterday morning.

Much friction had existed among the members, arising over the allegation that the janitor of the school, Michael McAuliffe, was in full control of the school board, and a further breach was created by the release last Wednesday of two teachers in the school, Miss F. C. McQuiston and Miss Grace Faloon, who, it is said, were replaced by relatives of the members of the board. Miss Jones, said to be a niece of David Jones, president of the board, and Miss Bertha Fagin, said to be a niece of the janitor, were elected in place of the released teachers. The board is also said to have elected R. T. McElroy a member of the Central Board of Education, and the charge is made that he is not a resident of the Second ward.

The board consisted of David Jones, president; W. D. Stockdale, secretary; Jacob Motz, Robert J. Lutz, Jeremiah Welch and Peter Avetta.

New Brushton M. E. Church to Be Dedicated on June 12



The Brushton Methodist Episcopal church, formerly the Hamilton avenue M. E. church, will be dedicated on Sunday June 12, with benefiting exercises. Ten years ago a Sabbath school was started in the borough by the Rev. Samuel P. Long which developed into a church which has worshiped since 1893 at the corner of Hamilton avenue and Hale street, and which has now nearly completed a handsome $33,000 edifice. The new building is modern in all respects and embodies the latest ideas in church architecture. It is brick with stone trimings, and has its tower and main entrance on Kelly street.

The main auditorium has a seating capacity of 500 and the Sunday school room connecting, has a capacity of 450 additional. A feature will be a large and thoroughly equipped gymnasium in the basement with all modern apparatus, the latter the gift of William Robinson. A fine pipe organ, one-half of which is the gift of Andrew Carnegie, will be installed. The Rev. B. B. Wolf has been pastor during the past five years and through his efforts the church has developed.

The Rev. Bishop Earl Cranston, LL. D., the Rev. T. N. Boyle, LL. D., and other prominent ministers will be present at the dedicatory services June 12, which will consist of a sermon at 11 o'clock by Bishop Cranston, a platform meeting and Sabbath School reunion at 3:30 o'clock and a sermon in the evening at 7:30 o'clock with the formal dedication at that time.

IMMENSE FREIGHT DEPOT PLANNED FOR THE POINT

Residents Below Third Street to Move So That Work on the Improvement May Start as Early As Possible.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company will begin work in a few days on the erection of a mammoth freight station on its Point holdings to cost at least $1,000,000. Plans for the building have been completed and it is believed that the contract has already been awarded. The station will not only be the largest in this city, but will be one of the largest freight terminals in the country, and will be arranged to serve the purpose of the system of warehouses for which it was first announced the Point property was purchased.

The station will extend from Third street 800 feet toward the Monongahela river, reaching to the exposition building. It will be 200 feet wide and will cover practically all the railroad property below Penn avenue except what is used for elevated tracks. In its exterior the building will be plain, but no expense will be spared to make it substantial and convenient. It is to be of modern fire proof construction, with a steel frame. The building will be two stories high above the elevated tracks, which at this point will be about 15 feet above street level. To raise the level of the ground to this height it is stated authoritatively that the hump dirt and rock will be used if the removal of that obstruction is consummated. A retaining wall will be built around the property below Third street and a concrete foundation provided for the station.

In connection with the freight station project it was learned yesterday that work on the elevated tracks in Duquesne way near the Point will be started soon. The estimated cost of this improvement is put at $1,000,000. With the exception of the properties of the National Biscuit Company in Duquesne way, near Third street, of the Consolidated Ice Company at Duquesne way and First street, and the block house, the Pennsylvania has all the land at the Point. Notices have been served on all the tenants occupying the old brick houses and shops below Third street to vacate and within 30 days it is expected that a large number of these buildings will be razed.

A NEW MOVE FOR MEMORIAL HALL

Old Soldiers Ask the Court to Reopen Proceedings Closed Last February.

CLARK AND MERCER WILLING

The county commissioners have consented to compromise with the old soldiers who form an advisory committee on a memorial hall to the memory of the Allegheny county soldiers of the civil war. They have receded from their earliest contention that nobody but F. J. Osterling should prepare plans for the memorial hall, and have consented to receive competitive designs and plans. While the majority of the commissioners, J. Carson Mercer and James A. Clark, still maintain that they are competent adjudicators of the architectural value of designs that may be submitted to them and refuse to submit to the former suggestions of the court of quarter sessions that they employ an expert commission to select the best designs, their position is not so arbitrary, old soldiers say, as it was before.

A petition was presented to court yesterday, asking for the reopening of the proceedings concerning the erection of a memorial hall, by Charles F. McKenna, as counsel for the advisory committee composed of members of the Grand Army association and the Union Veteran Legion. It was ordered filed.

May All Be Dead.

The petition recites that the ranks of the veterans of the rebellion are thinning; that for five years old soldiers have been working to have a memorial in this county, having been instrumental in securing the passage of the law authorizing the erection, at county seats, of monuments to the old soldiers, and that unless something be done toward securing the erection of a memorial hall there will be but few soldiers alive to see it. Furthermore, the petition says, the advisory committee, representing the taxpayers who asked for the monument, have the backing of the citizens of Allegheny county and the indorsement of all political organizations and that of the public press.

Attached to the petition is a letter received from County Commissioners Mercer and Clark by the advisory committee. The commissioners declare that they are willing to receive competitive designs from six architects, one from New York, one from Philadelphia, one from Chicago and three from Pittsburgh, and pay to each of them $1,000 for the best plans and designs to become the property of the county. The commissioners also agree to permit fair competition from volunteer architects, express a desire to co-operate with the advisory committee and a committee of the Loyal Legion to consult with them regarding the acceptance of plans and the selection of a site.

Do Not Want Experts.

The commissioners reiterate, however, their unwillingness to permit a commission of experts to pass upon the plans, on the ground that to agree to do so would be to abdicate their own prerogatives and evade responsibility placed upon them by the duties of their office.

Judge Macfarlane expressed doubt as to the court's right to reopen the proceedings, the matter being already adjudicated last February. On that point Mr. McKenna asked to be heard, and the court will set a time for the hearing. Mr. McKenna told Judge Macfarlane that his last decree, which the petitioners did not consider final, was satisfactory to the citizens of Allegheny county, as it was recognized that under the conditions then prevailing no other course was open to the court. An order for the court to sign, if it thinks it advisable, is attached to the petition. This blank decree requires the county commissioners to file a stipulation with the court, agreeing in case they select an architect and plans, to submit the designs and plans to the court for approval. From this it appears that the petitioners argue that the commissioners ought to have no objections to protect themselves and the committees from scandal by having the court review and revise their action, if it seem advisable.

GALA DAY COMING.

South Side Will Have Holiday When Benefit Game Is Played.

The people of the South Side will enjoy a half-holiday on June 16. The occasion will be a baseball game between merchants and physicians for the benefit of the new St. Joseph's hospital, Twenty-third and Carson streets. All arrangements have been completed for the game, which will be played at the Pittsburgh College park. It is expected that at least $1,500 will be raised for the new institution in this way.

The ball teams will be composed of many old-timers, who have not played ball for several years. This feature is looked forward to eagerly, because the lack of much practice will make the game funny as well as scientific.

The players on the merchants' team will be: J. J. Freund, P. J. McCarthy, Thomas Hanlon, J. A. Hanlon, A. W. Ott, Philip Erny, Albert Rohe, Fred Brainard, David Zimmerman and Clifford Rosler. The players on the physicians' team are, Dr. A. W. McGinnity, Dr. Herman Epplein, Dr. M. E. O'Brien, Dr. J. O'Neil, Dr. Joseph Stenger, Dr. William Forst, Dr. M. Schoenfield, Dr. J. M. McDonald, Dr. J. P. Saling, Dr. Lewis Lichert, Dr. Fred Miller, Dr. C. H. Hertzog, Dr. J. P. Kerr. The batteries will be Hanlon and Freund and McGinnity and McDonald.

The new hospital will be opened about July 15, and will accommodate about 50 patients at first. It will be in charge of the sisters of St. Joseph. Among those in charge of the benefit game are William Lowe, C. H. Heeson and Dr. C. T. Erky, who will sell score cards at the game and help swell the receipts as much as possible in this way.

HAS CLUE TO LONG LOST SISTER AFTER 30 YEARS

John Kennedy of Pittsburgh Learns That She Is in Brooklyn and Institutes Search.

Through a chance meeting with a friend whom he had not seen since he left Ireland 35 years ago, John Kennedy of 2444 Fifth avenue has hopes of locating his missing sister, Ellen, who left Ireland 30 years ago, and has not been heard from since.

Kennedy came to Pittsburgh from Borris O'Kane, county Tipperary, Ireland, in 1869. Five years later his sister Ellen followed, but never reached Pittsburgh. All trace of her was lost and she has never been heard from since, either by her brother or by the folks in Ireland.

Some time ago Martin Phelan, who was a neighbor of the Kennedys in Ireland, met Kennedy on Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh, and told him that he had just served an enlistment in the regular army, and while stationed in Brooklyn met Ellen Kennedy there and had visited her in her house. She had been married to a John Kennedy, who had also been a neighbor in Borris O'Kane. Phelan, however, could not remember the street or the number of the house, but promised to send on this information upon his return shortly after. No word has been received from Phelan, and Mr. Kennedy applied to the Brooklyn police and to a Brooklyn newspaper on Wednesday last to help locate his long-lost sister. She is now 54 years of age, while he is two years older.

A Notice for Women.

We are ready with bathing suits. Lines replete with every fashionable style, sizes for all women.

Styles in bathing suits change wonderfully from season to season. If you think last year's suit will answer, just get it out and look it over, and you'll at once see how impossible it is for wear this year.

And here's a word of advice—if you are not going away until, say, late in July or early in August, nevertheless it would be well to make your selection from a goodly collection, not later when sizes are broken and the choicest numbers have been culled.

Blue and black mohairs and silks—blouse waists with sailor collars, plain and gored skirts, tucked waists with high necks, or with surplice neck, side-pleated skirts, stitched to form yoke, or fitted gored skirts. Prices $2.50, $4.00, $5.00, $6.00 and up to $25.00.

Saturday, June 4, 1904.

The Gazette desires to call the attention of those of its readers who contemplate summer trips to the announcements of the many summer resort hotels published on page 14 of this issue.

A rather salty dose was given a man yesterday on the charge of selling a Jackson cracker in violation of a city ordinance. The case may be taken to court. We have no desire to pass opinion upon the question of fact involved, or to prejudice the case, but on general principles the vigorous policy of the administration in this matter is to be commended. The general employment of high explosives in celebrations and their sale to boys is reprehensible. The police bureau gave ample notice of its purpose to enforce the ordinance against the practice, and is on the right track when enforcing it vigorously. No Jackson crackers or lyddite shells in town this year!

Western Pennsylvania has had a taste of tropical climate this week, characterized by high temperature, high relative humidity and heavy rainfall. The effect is clearly seen in the growth of vegetation and the conditions have gone far toward redeeming backward crops. Some damage has been done to fields by washing on account of excessive precipitation. Fruit crops are progressing splendidly, though peaches will not be abundant, but orchardists fear ravages of insect pests and rot, the frequent rains rendering spraying useless. Altogether, however, the week has been favorable to growing things in this section and an abundant yield of hay is now assured.

An indication of the vastness of the improvement contemplated in the Point district appears in the item published in The Gazette yesterday. An official of the engineering department of the Pennsylvania estimates that the work cannot be completed in 10 years. The elevated tracks along Duquesne way may be finished in little more than a year and the surface tracks removed from Liberty avenue to the great relief of the city. That in itself is a large undertaking, and by that the magnitude of the other improvements may be gauged, as they will be more than 10 times as long in construction. However, at the rate of progress in the United States engineer's office on the Baltimore & Ohio depot plans, the Point system may be completed before the other desirable work is begun.

Director Bigelow's plans for filtration and hump removal are leaping ahead of the situation. There is something to commend in the scheme to invite bids before the bonds are sold, so the excess need not be issued, provided that course is strictly legal. But it is a little early to discuss that phase of the matter, since it will first be necessary to secure approval for the issue of the bonds. In the hump matter the public has not all the information it desires concerning cost of the work and probable consequential damages. The director may really expect to save some of the bonds proposed for that project, but the chamber of commerce does not yet share his roseate views on the subject. And then, Controller Larkin has his own ideas about the propriety of rushing the contracts before the preliminaries are attended to.

As indicated in these columns yesterday, the deadlock in the Illinois Republican convention has been broken by the nomination of Charles S. Deneen of Chicago for governor. This result was accomplished by a combination of the supporters of all of the other candidates except Lowden, who led in the voting on Thursday after delegates had been released from their instructions. Gov. Yates was a party to the agreement. Some of the Lowden men accept defeat rather sourly, but it is not probable the soreness will continue into the fall campaign. Mr. Deneen has high standing at the bar, was once city solicitor of Chicago and is personally highly esteemed. Fortunately there were no differences in the convention on national affairs, the delegates to the national convention being chosen and unanimously instructed for President Roosevelt at the first assemblage last month, the Hon. Robert R. Hitt being indorsed for vice president. The party thus united for the national ticket will be pretty certain to get enthusiastically together for the state ticket also, despite the irritation inevitably resulting from the protracted deadlock.

Too Late Awakening.

It is told on the authority of a Russian officer that Gen. Kuropatkin has awakened to an appreciation of the Japanese, having declared recently that they are among the "best strategists in the world." Our correspondent, Oscar K. Davis, told the other day how the Russians were beaten at the Yalu river because they held their antagonists in contempt. The Gazette earlier pointed out this fatal error of the Russians. Gen. Kuropatkin has been slow in making his discovery, and it may be of little value to him, because some of the officers and men under him have passed from the extreme of initial contempt to the other extreme of demoralization and utter helplessness.

Gen. Oku's forces, say the news reports, have taken possession of the first line of the outer fortifications of Port Arthur "after a feeble resistance" on the part of the Russians. The accomplishment of the Russian "impossible" at Nanshan hill has impressed the Russians who fought in that bloody engagement with the belief that the Japanese are irresistible, and Port Arthur itself may yet be taken more easily than the heights at Nanshan. The Russian fleet, too, attempted a "sortie" out of the harbor only to find the way blocked by Japanese warships. The hopelessness of Port Arthur may be judged by the desire thus early of the fleet to escape from the harbor.

With the unerring precision that has marked the Japanese campaign throughout, the heavy artillery of the besiegers has been placed on the captured positions commanding the inner fortifications. These batteries are at the same time safe from naval fire from the harbor. At every point the Russian defense has collapsed at the critical moment, indicating a measure of unpreparedness on the part of the officers and of inability to stand punishment on the part of the men. With the fall of Port Arthur, which is imminent, the Japanese will have practically reached the objective of the war. They will be ready for peace if Russia is ready to negotiate, and if Russia has not been convinced of the hopelessness of its position in the far east it may be constrained to consider peace proposals by conditions in other parts of the empire.

There are turbulent times in St. Petersburg, where princes assault cabinet ministers and grand dukes plan seizure of the throne. There is discontent in every province, repressed only by military power. There is revolt in the hearts of Finns and Polanders and Jews and Armenians. Russia can do worse, probably, than accept the liberal terms of peace Japan will be ready to offer after Port Arthur has fallen and Niuchwang has been restored to the Chinese.

Emperor William's Policy.

Since Emperor William of Germany has followed his sympathetic communications to the czar by a letter of advice to Gen. Kuropatkin, there is some trepidation in Europe lest the "war lord" may be moved to take up arms against Japan. Europe may cease to worry. The German emperor is not looking for a fight, but is merely pursuing a well-established policy. He is willing to let the other fellows do the fighting and is somewhat anxious to keep them at it, while his people sell the things that are "made in Germany."

It will be readily recalled that at the inception of the American-Spanish war the kaiser showed marked favor to Spain. He handed out such encouragement as he could to the little kingdom and his naval representatives made themselves obnoxious to Dewey at Manila. There was talk at that time both in Europe and this country about possible German intervention. Then, when Spain had done everything it could and lost everything, the kaiser devoted himself to throwing bouquets this way to smooth out ruffled Yankee feelings.

When the plucky Boers met Mr. Chamberlain's aggressions with arms the German emperor got busy again. He sent messages to Oom Paul Kruger well calculated to stiffen the spine of that old war horse. German intervention loomed larger than ever. The Boers were misled into expecting some assistance from the war lord, but the war dragged on, taxing British resources, but bringing no help to the heroic Boers from Germany. When at last President Kruger fled to Europe he was accorded the reception due to a hero in France and Holland, but was coldly turned down by the royal master at Berlin.

Now the kaiser is encouraging Russia. He has again picked the side that is getting the worst of it and is helping to keep the war going. His position at Kiao-Chau gives ground for his sympathy. But he has no intention to do any of the fighting—not he. He will be ready at the end of the war, or sooner, to sell guns and ship material to either belligerent and to sell many things used in time of peace. The longer the war lasts the less fear has Germany that Russia or Japan will be serious commercial rivals in the near future and the greater is the chance that they will be consumers of German manufactures.

Before the American-Spanish war Germany was running a hard race to overtake Great Britain in commerce and industry and was in mortal fear of the American invasion. Germany was laboring under the handicap of a terribly costly military establishment. The war and the subsequent boom in this country relieved Germany of some of the pressure of American competition. During the Boer-English war and since Germany has passed Great Britain in several lines of manufacture and trade, and England is not yet rid of the burden of taxation inflicted by that struggle. Such is the method in the kaiser's war madness. With his military establishment he keeps up the constant threat that compels other world powers to increase their national defenses. His country bears a military burden by virtue of its position and ambitions; very well, he can make other nations carry a similar load and their industries are thus handicapped also.

It is probably to the kaiser's credit that his real sympathies are all with Germany. His fundamental policy is mercenary. He "jollies" the loser in the game of war to get him and his antagonist in deeper. It is a fine play. However, it can hardly be kept up much longer. The kaiser's Uncle Edward has brought about an understanding between England and France and Portugal and Italy that materially reduces the power of Germany to frighten them. There is an approach toward bringing Russia into the understanding, and Austria-Hungary is so torn internally as to be an inconsiderable factor. By and by Germany will be surrounded and will cease to be a standing threat against the peace of the world and the kaiser will be fortunate, indeed, if he does not suffer for it.

The Business Situation.

The distinctive feature of the present reaction in trade is the absence of apprehension regarding the future. More than a year ago experienced business men foresaw what is now taking place. They were not deceived by the specious argument originating in Wall street that this country had entered upon an entirely new course which rendered obsolete all the old charts, if not the principles, of finance and trade. This same class of business men express confidence over the outlook for next year. They feel that the present reaction must run its course, but they also appreciate that the hand-to-mouth policy being pursued by both producers and consumers will maintain a healthy state of trade. No one is piling up stocks which would have to be unloaded at a sacrifice in case of a recurrence of monetary stringency. On the other hand, no one is buying more than is necessary to meet current requirements, and therefore is not incurring obligations for future delivery which may be defaulted. The only real uncertainty as to the future relates to the crops. If these are up to the average there will be a good foundation upon which to build for 1905. If they should fall below the average, the recovery in business will be slower, but it will not be attended or retarded by the disturbing factors which accompanied short-crop years in the past. There will be no assaults upon the currency to be met, and there will be no government bond issues to preserve the treasury gold reserve. While a spirit of caution pervades the entire business situation, there is at the same time a strong undercurrent of optimism.

The most important change in commodity values during the week was in cotton. There were violent declines on Wednesday and Thursday, carrying the price to the lowest level of the year. Compared with last January's highest price the shrinkage is nearly 6 cents a pound, which is almost if not altogether unprecedented within the same length of time and under similar circumstances. A careful canvass of crop conditions shows the latter to be more favorable than last year, and there has been a considerable increase in acreage. The season is late, but present indications are for more than an average crop of good quality. We depend upon the cotton crop for early exports to draw gold hither at a season when the country is drawing upon its balances in New York. Last year the movement was retarded by the abnormally high prices, which subsequent events proved were largely the result of speculation. For instance, in July and August, 1903, we exported only 52,000,000 pounds, as compared with 138,000,000 pounds in the corresponding months in 1902 and 203,000,000 pounds in the like period of 1901. The declining price and the prospects for a good crop should produce conditions favorable to large and early exports this year, which should have the effect of restoring to us a portion of the gold sent abroad this spring.

In industrial circles there has been further contraction in the volume of business. This condition is gradually extending all over the country, and is reflected in decreasing railroad earnings in the northwest and the southwest, as well as in New England and the middle states. It is quite likely that there will be a considerable curtailment of pig iron production this month, which will involve a smaller movement of ore, fuel and limestone, and will tend to further reduce earnings of railroads traversing the industrial section. This prospect is one of the causes for the present stagnation in the stock market. Investors are apparently waiting to see whether the reports of contraction in trade will not influence holders of securities to sell at lower prices, hence they are holding off. Owners of investment securities, however, are unable to see how they can improve their position by selling, and the speculative holders of stocks have an easier task in carrying them on margin than at any previous time in years. In other words, the stock market is in a technically strong position, and only the unexpected event is likely to cause any serious decline.

A local firm advertises "trousers at half price." The wives who would "wear the trousers" of the family will not be able to resist such a bargain sale.

Walter Travis is the first man to lift Great Britain's amateur golf championship cup out of the country. It may be as hard to get back as the America's cup.

O. K. Davis is the kind of correspondent that gets the news. One who can still wear his hat without bursting the band, too.

Col. Guffey is in New York and the Parker forces are after him. Wonderful what a bond there is in silence.

The Illinois deadlock has been broken and the dove of peace can now come to earth again in that section.

Talked of in Gotham

By GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 3.—Bohemia dies hard in Manhattan. Bohemia used to be typified mainly by the table d'hote, where spaghetti was the piece de resistance, washed down by vin ordinaire which set the artistic soul keenly on edge, and inspired all kinds of smartness of tongue and pen. Of late years the gaudy eating houses of upper Broadway and Sixth avenue at one end of the island and the palatial lunch rooms of Wall street at the other, have gradually driven to the wall the low ceiled, cheap papered, Italian and French dining rooms, with their many black legged little tables, upon which raffish looking cruets and slim sticks of bread thrust into vases were always on view from morning to night. There are foreign restaurants still in existence, mostly to the west of Washington square, and you may find a crowd of good fellows, with Van Dyke beards and velvet coats, in them any evening. But the 40-cent table d'hote as an institution has been melting away for 10 years.

Riccadonna, whose place in Union square used to be a favorite resort of visiting Pittsburghers in the eighties, but who was obliged to leave his old stand and go uptown through decreasing business and who died, discouraged, two or three years ago, will not be forgotten, however. Someone has just started a restaurant in Twenty-fifth street under the old name. It looks familiar as it stands forth on a black sign in all the glory of gilt lettering, and doubtless many people will go there, for old times' sake. Then there is Maria's, as well as Ricadonna's. Maria moved up from the Washington square district to Forty-fourth street not long ago, but she found herself in the wrong atmosphere. She could not compete with the plate glass and electric sign lobster palaces, and now she is coming back to her old stamping ground. The "Black Cat" is another of the old places which is falling into the sere and yellow. It does business, but not as much as it did a decade ago. The struggle of the Bohemian restaurant for existence it pitiful, and none the less so because the dying fight is such a desperate one.

Wail of "Tin Pan Alley."

"Tin Pan alley" was excited today as it has not been for many years. The announcement that Howley, Dresser & Co., one of the most prominent music publishing firms in the city, had gone into voluntary bankruptcy, came as a shock in which surprise was as powerful an element as regret. It bears out a remark I made in these letters a few days ago, that there are no big song hits in sight for this summer. If there were, this firm most likely would have had some of them.

Paul Dresser, who wrote "Just Tell Them That You Saw Me," "On the Banks of the Wabash," and a dozen or so of other popular compositions of seven or eight years ago, has not given us anything of great moment of late, and that may have something to do with the troubles of the firm. Fred Haviland, who used to be a member of the house, broke away within a year and is conducting an independent business. It may be that the music publishing industry has been rather overdone in late years. That is an opinion freely expressed along "Tin Pan alley."

Pu Lun Liked the Girls.

Pu Lun and his suite went behind the scenes of a theater in which a spectacular musical comedy is running, last night. The distinguished Chinaman said that it was all so different to anything he had seen in his theaters at home, but he did not say that the American method was not preferable. His highness admired the show girls, and laughed heartily at a characteristic remark by Chauncey Depew, who was present, that "this is hardly the place for a newly married man."

Sully Takes Any Seat.

Daniel J. Sully, the ex-cotton king, takes the position that his pew in St. Bartholomew's church, one of the most fashionable places of worship in the metropolis, cannot be called a general asset, and that his creditors cannot take it from him. He bought the pew just before his failure, but did not get the deed. The receivers got hold of it, and are waiting for the courts to decide whether they can keep it. Mr. Sully insists that his pew is exempt. Meanwhile he takes any seat he can get when he attends St. Bartholomew's.

More Safety for Pedestrians.

At one of the "L" stations in the drygoods district, where there are big department stores filling two or three blocks, a gallery has been built over the tracks so that shoppers can descend to either side of Sixth avenue direct from the station. This is a capital idea. The avenue is one of the most dangerous in the city to pedestrians, with the elevated trains roaring overhead, street cars plunging along at a steam railroad rate below, and a mass of wagons and other vehicles filling all the roadway not occupied by the electric cars. The bridge over the tracks will doubtless prevent many runovers and save dozens of lives in the course of a year. Incidentally it suggests that the retail shopping district will not move away from its old quarter for some time to come.

Sentiment for Monument to Green.

Public sentiment in favor of erecting a monument to the late Andrew H. Green, the "father of Greater New York," seems to be growing in New York. The vindication of his memory afforded by the developments in the case of the octogenarian, John H. Platt, and Hannah Elias, has given renewed impetus to the movement for a memorial to Mr. Green, and subscriptions will be taken up methodically as soon as arrangements can be made.

Military Pride of New York.

Greater New York's military pride is centered largely in squadron A, the crack cavalry organization of the city. Its membership includes many wealthy young men, several having been "Rough Riders," who accompanied Theodore Roosevelt to Cuba at the time of the Spanish-American war. When squadron A turns out in full panoply for any reason, there is always an admiring crowd to watch it. "Boots and saddles" was sounded this afternoon for the march to Peekskill for the annual encampment, and when the troops clattered out of the armory for their 56-mile ride, the cheering was tumultuous and spontaneous. They were a fine appearing lot of cavalrymen. It is expected that they will reach Peekskill by Sunday. Maj. O. B. Bridgeman is in command.

Old Sol Reappears.

New York saw sun today. That this is worth noting will be conceded when it is stated that Old Sol had not shown himself to the people of this city since last Monday. This was the fifth day of rain, and more of it is threatened for tonight and tomorrow.

The Quiet Observer

By ERASMUS WILSON.

"Thunderstorm fer br'akfas'—
Lawd he'p de errin' sinner!
Wix' en hail
Dat never fail,
En lightnin' after dinner!

"But thank de Lawd we livin'
In all de storm en stir!
Miss Mary knows
Dat big red rose
I done brung home ter her!"

—Frank L. Stanton.

That's about the how of it, so to speak. The trouble with most of us is that we fail to see "dat big red rose," noting only the wind and rain and thunder.

And there is just where we make the mistakes of our lives—noting the storms and forgetting the sunshine and growing weather.

Maybe you haven't forgotten what you heard said about May, just past, or what you said yourself about it being the worst ever. But the chances are that you failed to note or to be impressed with the weather man's average up for Mays of five years past, which showed that this particular May was, if anything, a little better than the average.

All this goes to show that we are a pack of kickers, and were it not for the Stantons, Rileys, Kisers and the rest of the born poets, the world would rush headlong into a pessimistic condition second only to that which prevails in the infernal regions.

Let us, therefore, be thankful for the optimistic poet, sentimentalist and joker. Theirs is a fine quality of salt without which we would be in great danger of spoiling.

* * * * *

It is not the rollicking, hip sort of fellow that keeps us from going to the dogs; nor is it the long-faced, solemn style of chap, but rather the rough-and-ready fellow. He may have wit, or he may be commonplace, yet he is ever ready for any emergency, and may generally be depended upon to do something.

And we are often surprised to see him doing things which we thought were much too difficult for him, and doing them well. That is because he has a heart for any duty, and when a fellow's heart is right he can do almost anything that may be demanded of him.

You know very well that when you have your heart set on doing anything you are likely to find a way to do it. Maybe you may be a long time about it, but you get there all the same, provided you have patience, which you are apt to have, for patience is of the heart rather than of the mind.

It is important, therefore, that we cultivate the good in children and encourage their generous impulses, so that when they grow into men and women their hearts will know only that which is good and their impulses will be toward the right.

If it rains, why, just let it rain, but keep an eye out for the big red rose, for it surely will bloom somewhere.

* * * * *

"Solemnity Jinkins" they called him, for he
No good in this worl' was created to see;
No matter the season—no matter the place,
"Woe" warn't no friend to amazin', sweet grace!"
An' never that look that was sad an' forlorn,
An' "Trouble's a-comin', as shore as you're born!"

Well, they took him one day to the millpond, an' down
They soused him an' soused him before the whole town!
An' they asked him "Is trouble a-comin', you think?"
An' he spluttered this answer, as quick as a wink—
Lookin' mightily drowned an' mightily grum:—
"I don't think it's comin'—please God, it's done come!"

—Frank L. Stanton.

It would hardly be right to let this fling of Stanton's slip, for it goes to the spot. Evidently he hasn't much use for a pessimist, or more particularly, for a pessimistic cuss.

If it is trouble you are fearing or looking for, it is coming your way sure.

This you may set down as a rule to go by, as we say.

Some say that it is the unexpected that happens, and so it may be, but it is not the unexpected that comes to pass in the regular order of things.

That which happens is that which comes unexpectedly, or out of the usual order.

You may never have thought about this before and for that reason have been using that word rather carelessly, or too promiscuously, so to speak.

* * * * *

Comfort in life, as well as success, is largely a matter of temperament, or temper. We are tools designed for certain work and you know that the value of a tool depends upon the quality of its temper.

If you will take the trouble to look up the causes of the failure of men, and particularly of your own failures, you will find that it was your temper—too soft or too brittle.

Temperament relates to the quality of temper in the individual. Knowing this you will have a better understanding of what wise men mean when they speak of temperaments.

Plainly speaking, it is temper, or quality of nerve, that determines the worth of a man.

* * * * *

And after all are we not merely a part of a great scheme and will we not eventually occupy the place for which our temper fits us?

All life is the same in this great universe, but arranged according to its temper or quality. The quality of life in any living creature determines its rank and place in the universe, just as our stations are determined by the life qualities which we possess.

And as it is here may it not be, indeed shall it not be, hereafter?

The relation of the physical world to us is becoming more and more the theme of the philosopher. Following is an excerpt from a careful, helpful study by William Dean Howells in a recent number of Harper's Monthly, which is well worth your attention:

"How much do we really know of the vast scheme of what we call inanimate nature?

"Our human illusion is so complete that beyond its folds we cannot pass to a true comprehension of nature for what it is in itself. We are indeed farther away from such an intuition than were the followers of Pan, who were very humble creatures and had sure instincts, nearer to infinity than our reasonings.

"We behold the physical world only on the side of its descents—its death everywhere, meeting our life; and our pride of transcendency is nourished by the contemplation of this everlasting and faithful service. In our dream the world lets down to us its ladder of life, but we only see the angels descending, not those which ascend.

"It is only as nature stoops to our limited senses, thus entering our doorways, that we are in any way aware of her visitation. She is to us a Sphinx whose riddles are propounded to us from silent lips, we only guessing what they are. We call the physical world dead because it is only its dying side that is presented to us.

"On our globe are vast regions uninhabitated by man. We think of these as insignificant waste places full of the vanity of desolation. We will not allow that the suprises there are beautiful, since there is no human eye to see them—and in that eye alone is there a sense of the beautiful. But the sun rises there just as elsewhere, and the glimpses of the moon illumine the mountains and the valleys.

"May not this nature which turns to us a cold, still face have its own beauty and meaning, apart from our sense or our interpretation? Surely it has its own ascensions, far away out of our sight, along a path we may not follow.

"If we could behold that ascending path, which is hidden even from the scientific vision, the disclosures of that new world would surprise us. We should then retrace the path of a progression which has advanced by increased limitation and sequestration; we should see as One sees who has not eyes; and perhaps—since no door shuts but another door is opened, and with every outfolding of the curtain there is a hidden infolding—it might be given us to behold what is becoming in that unseen world of which ours offers us but the broken pattern."

Where Nothing Is Bright.

"The electric searchlight," said the old salt, "is incomparably better than the old whale oil lamp. Yet in a fog it can penetrate no farther. That is where the fog-horn comes in. Whenever you hear a ship or a shipmate blowing his horn continually, there isn't much else doing."

Our Casual Guests

THE STROLLER.

Sandy is a chef whose extensive knowledge of the culinary art has always made him a popular individual. He wears his duck clothes in a downtown hostelry much frequented by men. While watching him prepare a cup of clam broth, my curiosity grew apace.

"Sandy," said I, "what is the most popular single kind of food that you are called upon to serve?"

"Oysters. During the height of the season I prepare hardly anything else. Then I use, on an average, about a barrel a day."

"What is the favorite way of having them cooked?"

"Well, suppose we divide them into classes, according to drinks. The whisky drinkers like theirs raw, on the half-shell. The beer people like them in cocktails, with catsup. The coffee men prefer theirs stewed. The man from the country nearly always orders his fried.

"And here is rather a remarkable thing about the man from the country town, especially an inland place. He comes in here hungry, not knowing what he wants. Then the very first thing he will order is fish, or oysters, or some sea product. Apparently he doesn't get enough of either at home.

"I can always distinguish him."

Quay, Dying, Made a Destiny.

I recognized him instantly. The clear, fresh, young face, the erect carriage, the little cap, all proclaimed the student. He sat on a leather divan in the hotel lobby, as I walked up to him and touched his shoulder. I learned his name and class, found that he was from my own college, and in an instant we were comrades.

"But what are you doing in Pittsburgh?" I asked.

"Going to Annapolis," he replied.

"Does that mean that you have an appointment?"

"Yes; I'm the luckiest chap in the world. Start from here at 1 o'clock."

"Good work. But how did you get the place?"

"Why, you know Senator Quay was up at Morganza just before he left for Beaver, to die. Well, one afternoon he sent for me at little Washington, and made me the present of an appointment to Annapolis. So I'm just starting down there now to get ready for the entrance exams. They come off the 21st of this month."

So, by the words of this young undergraduate, was again shown the Caesarean power of that master politician, who in his dying days, still found the strength to direct the destiny of a young man's life.

Simple Story of a Hero.

He came slowly into Union station, his crutches striking the tiles regularly and firmly. One leg was off above the knee, but the remainder of the man was sound and vigorous. The little Grand Army of the Republic button told the tale. He bought a ticket and sat down beside me.

"It's too hot for an old fellow like me," he said, pulling out his handkerchief and mopping his brow.

"It is for anybody," I replied.

"I'll be glad to get back to Fayette county. Just came over to visit my son. Wanted to see some of the boys while they were in town."

"If you don't think me impertinent, would you mind telling me how you lost your leg?"

"It was during the battle of Hatchs Run. I belonged to company H, Fifty-seventh Pennsylvania. Well, we were ordered to charge the Johnnies across a stubble field. When the line got to the center of the lot, we stopped for some unaccountable reason. As I was about to take another step, a musket flashed to the right of me. The leg which I was just putting forward suddenly felt numb, and on looking down I could see the blood trickling from a place just above the knee. Then when I put my weight on the leg I went down.

"The Johnnies kept up a hot fire, but three of the boys came and dragged me off to a fence corner, out of range. A surgeon ran to me, with a knife and saw in his hand. He stuck a handkerchief under my nose, and when I came to, my leg was gone.

"I stayed in the camp hospital for a while and was then put into a wagon and hauled two miles over a corduroy road to the railway station.

"While I was lying in the Washington hospital, Lee surrendered. On my recovery I returned to my wife and baby in Fayette county, where I've been ever since."

At this point the station crier began to bawl, and the veteran slowly rose to his feet, bade me good-by and went out the door.

Cholly's Baseball Calamity.

He wandered down to Exposition park to see the game. Gladrags, sailor hat and tan toosies, all were resplendently new.

"Ah! A reserved seat, if you please," requested Cholly.

"Nothin' doin'. All gone," said the Box Office.

"But I say. I want to see the game."

"Well, maybe you can squeeze in on the bleachers."

"Beastly c'wowd, deucher know. Don't fawncy it."

"Try the side lines, then. Make way for the gentleman behind you. Here's your ticket."

Cholly paid his money and took his chance. By chance he found himself a member of a bowling little group which stood by the end of the grandstand. The inning was an exciting one, and the huge multitude shrieked and moaned by turns. But finally the end came and the teams began to exchange places.

Cholly had a breathing space, and commenced to look around. Right beside him was a grimy barrel filled with water, equally grimy. Against the barrel leaned a board, which was just long enough to span the open mouth of the barrel.

Cholly's wheels did some unwonted turning, which resulted in his putting the board across the barrel, upon which he agilely clambered. Here he stood, like a Colossus of Rhodes, gazing triumphantly over the heads of his neighbors.

Presently the shrieking and moaning began afresh. Cholly also became enthused and frantically waved his sailor. Then the ball was seen to soar far upward and outward, while pandemonium reigned.

Suddenly there was a sharp crack and the waving Colossus shot downward as though yanked by an invisible force.

But the multitude hardly noticed the interruption, and continued to cheer. Then when comparative silence came, everybody's attention was attracted to that little, howling crowd, which stood around the rain barrel, laughing and shouting vociferously.

The Death Roll

Funeral of Mrs. Mary C. Wells.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Chaffey Wells, wife of Calvin Wells, were held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the family home, No. 928 Lincoln avenue, Allegheny. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. W. L. McEwan of the Third Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Wells was a communicant. He was assisted by the Rev. Dr. Robert Christie of the Western Theological seminary. The services were simple but impressive. Among those present were two tots of the neighborhood who placed a handful of flowers on the coffin of "the kind lady" who had been their friend in life. A delegation representing the employes of the Pittsburgh Forge and Iron Company was present. The choir of the Third church rendered favorite hymns, these being "Abide With Me," "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "Rock of Ages." Interment followed privately in the family burying ground at the Allegheny cemetery. The honorary pallbearers were Sol Schoyer, Will Schoyer, William Stewart, J. G. Donnell, W. L. Jones and John R. Jackson. The active pallbearers were John B. Townsend of Philadelphia, and E. R. Richardson, J. W. Rhodes, Russell Forsyth, Starling Childs, Frank Severance and Clifford Claney. In addition to Ben G. Wells and wife of Philadelphia, Mrs. C. M. Griggs of St. Paul and Mrs. Annie W. Cook of San Francisco, the children, there were present Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Emory Smith and Mrs. Talcott Williams of Philadelphia and Thomas F. Noon of Peru, Ill.

Mrs. Margaret Neal Richards.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Margaret Neal Richards were held at her late home, No. 604 Sandusky street, Allegheny, at 8 o'clock last night. The interment will take place today. Mrs. Richards, who was aged 88, died on Thursday. She was born on the present site of Uniondale cemetery and was the oldest member of the Reynolds family, pioneer settlers of the North Side, her mother, Mrs. Nancy Neal Reynolds, having come to Alleghony from Ballymoney, Ireland, in 1800, and resided there till her death in 1879, aged 94. Mrs. Richards is survived by three children, George W. Richards, who is connected with the Allegheny bureau of health; Mrs. William Craig of No. 200 North Craig street; Mrs. William R. Reno of Maryland avenue; 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. The only remaining member of the old family is Miss Hannah Neal Reynolds.

William Bell.

William Bell, aged 65, well known in North Side politics, died yesterday morning at his home, No. 508 Jackson street, Allegheny, of injuries received in a fall. Two years ago Mr. Bell fractured his hip by falling in Smithfield street and since then had to use crutches. Thursday night he slipped on the wet steps while leaving the Union club in East Diamond street and was hurt about the head. For years he was engineer at the River avenue pumping station and was appointed county boiler inspector when William A. Stone became governor of the state. Mr. Bell was a son of James and Janet Bell, who came to this country from Scotland. He was born in Allegheny and during the civil war served three years in the United States navy. Two brothers, Andrew of Allegheny, and Alexander of California, and a sister, Mrs. Annie Percy, of Connellsville, survive.

Thomas McBride.

Thomas McBride, twice mayor of New Castle and first lieutenant of company D, of the One Hundred and Thirty-fourth Pennsylvania volunteers, Col. M. S. Quay's regiment, died Thursday night at his home in Philadelphia. His body will be taken to New Castle today for burial. He was 76 years old and was born in Scott township, Lawrence county. For several years before the war he was a merchant in Harlinsburg. After serving in the One Hundred and Thirty-fourth regiment he enlisted in Col. Robert B. McComb's regiment from Lawrence county and served in West Virginia. Later he was in business at New Castle. He was the first mayor of New Castle and later he was re-elected. He married Miss Lydo Winan, who survives him, with one daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Beisel of Philadelphia.

Miss Grace Applegate.

Miss Grace Applegate, a popular young woman of Brownsville, Pa., died yesterday morning at St. John's hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., of typhoid fever, after an illness of two weeks. She had just been graduated as a professional nurse at the hospital when stricken with the fever. Miss Applegate was the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Applegate of Brownsville, her father being the editor of the Brownsville Clipper. Besides her parents, one sister, Miss Mary F. Applegate, until recently society editress of the Pittsburgh Post, and two brothers survive. Miss Applegate's father and sister were at her bedside when she passed away. The remains will be taken to Brownsville for interment.

Saturday, June 4, 1904.

The Gazette desires to call the attention of those of its readers who contemplate summer trips to the announcements of the many summer resort hotels published on page 14 of this issue.

A rather salty dose was given a man yesterday on the charge of selling a Jackson cracker in violation of a city ordinance. The case may be taken to court. We have no desire to pass opinion upon the question of fact involved, or to prejudice the case, but on general principles the vigorous policy of the administration in this matter is to be commended. The general employment of high explosives in celebrations and their sale to boys is reprehensible. The police bureau gave ample notice of its purpose to enforce the ordinance against the practice, and is on the right track when enforcing it vigorously. No Jackson crackers or lyddite shells in town this year!

Western Pennsylvania has had a taste of tropical climate this week, characterized by high temperature, high relative humidity and heavy rainfall. The effect is clearly seen in the growth of vegetation and the conditions have gone far toward redeeming backward crops. Some damage has been done to fields by washing on account of excessive precipitation. Fruit crops are progressing splendidly, though peaches will not be abundant, but orchardists fear ravages of insect pests and rot, the frequent rains rendering spraying useless. Altogether, however, the week has been favorable to growing things in this section and an abundant yield of hay is now assured.

An indication of the vastness of the improvement contemplated in the Point district appears in the item published in The Gazette yesterday. An official of the engineering department of the Pennsylvania estimates that the work cannot be completed in 10 years. The elevated tracks along Duquesne way may be finished in little more than a year and the surface tracks removed from Liberty avenue to the great relief of the city. That in itself is a large undertaking, and by that the magnitude of the other improvements may be gauged, as they will be more than 10 times as long in construction. However, at the rate of progress in the United States engineer's office on the Baltimore & Ohio depot plans, the Point system may be completed before the other desirable work is begun.

Director Bigelow's plans for filtration and hump removal are leaping ahead of the situation. There is something to commend in the scheme to invite bids before the bonds are sold, so the excess need not be issued, provided that course is strictly legal. But it is a little early to discuss that phase of the matter, since it will first be necessary to secure approval for the issue of the bonds. In the hump matter the public has not all the information it desires concerning cost of the work and probable consequential damages. The director may really expect to save some of the bonds proposed for that project, but the chamber of commerce does not yet share his roseate views on the subject. And then, Controller Larkin has his own ideas about the propriety of rushing the contracts before the preliminaries are attended to.

As indicated in these columns yesterday, the deadlock in the Illinois Republican convention has been broken by the nomination of Charles S. Deneen of Chicago for governor. This result was accomplished by a combination of the supporters of all of the other candidates except Lowden, who led in the voting on Thursday after delegates had been released from their instructions. Gov. Yates was a party to the agreement. Some of the Lowden men accept defeat rather sourly, but it is not probable the soreness will continue into the fall campaign. Mr. Deneen has high standing at the bar, was once city solicitor of Chicago and is personally highly esteemed. Fortunately there were no differences in the convention on national affairs, the delegates to the national convention being chosen and unanimously instructed for President Roosevelt at the first assemblage last month, the Hon. Robert R. Hitt being indorsed for vice president. The party thus united for the national ticket will be pretty certain to get enthusiastically together for the state ticket also, despite the irritation inevitably resulting from the protracted deadlock.

Too Late Awakening.

It is told on the authority of a Russian officer that Gen. Kuropatkin has awakened to an appreciation of the Japanese, having declared recently that they are among the "best strategists in the world." Our correspondent, Oscar K. Davis, told the other day how the Russians were beaten at the Yalu river because they held their antagonists in contempt. The Gazette earlier pointed out this fatal error of the Russians. Gen. Kuropatkin has been slow in making his discovery, and it may be of little value to him, because some of the officers and men under him have passed from the extreme of initial contempt to the other extreme of demoralization and utter helplessness.

Gen. Oku's forces, say the news reports, have taken possession of the first line of the outer fortifications of Port Arthur "after a feeble resistance" on the part of the Russians. The accomplishment of the Russian "impossible" at Nanshan hill has impressed the Russians who fought in that bloody engagement with the belief that the Japanese are irresistible, and Port Arthur itself may yet be taken more easily than the heights at Nanshan. The Russian fleet, too, attempted a "sortie" out of the harbor only to find the way blocked by Japanese warships. The hopelessness of Port Arthur may be judged by the desire thus early of the fleet to escape from the harbor.

With the unerring precision that has marked the Japanese campaign throughout, the heavy artillery of the besiegers has been placed on the captured positions commanding the inner fortifications. These batteries are at the same time safe from naval fire from the harbor. At every point the Russian defense has collapsed at the critical moment, indicating a measure of unpreparedness on the part of the officers and of inability to stand punishment on the part of the men. With the fall of Port Arthur, which is imminent, the Japanese will have practically reached the objective of the war. They will be ready for peace if Russia is ready to negotiate, and if Russia has not been convinced of the hopelessness of its position in the far east it may be constrained to consider peace proposals by conditions in other parts of the empire.

There are turbulent times in St. Petersburg, where princes assault cabinet ministers and grand dukes plan seizure of the throne. There is discontent in every province, repressed only by military power. There is revolt in the hearts of Finns and Polanders and Jews and Armenians. Russia can do worse, probably, than accept the liberal terms of peace Japan will be ready to offer after Port Arthur has fallen and Niuchwang has been restored to the Chinese.

Emperor William's Policy.

Since Emperor William of Germany has followed his sympathetic communications to the czar by a letter of advice to Gen. Kuropatkin, there is some trepidation in Europe lest the "war lord" may be moved to take up arms against Japan. Europe may cease to worry. The German emperor is not looking for a fight, but is merely pursuing a well-established policy. He is willing to let the other fellows do the fighting and is somewhat anxious to keep them at it, while his people sell the things that are "made in Germany."

It will be readily recalled that at the inception of the American-Spanish war the kaiser showed marked favor to Spain. He handed out such encouragement as he could to the little kingdom and his naval representatives made themselves obnoxious to Dewey at Manila. There was talk at that time both in Europe and this country about possible German intervention. Then, when Spain had done everything it could and lost everything, the kaiser devoted himself to throwing bouquets this way to smooth out ruffled Yankee feelings.

When the plucky Boers met Mr. Chamberlain's aggressions with arms the German emperor got busy again. He sent messages to Oom Paul Kruger well calculated to stiffen the spine of that old war horse. German intervention loomed larger than ever. The Boers were misled into expecting some assistance from the war lord, but the war dragged on, taxing British resources, but bringing no help to the heroic Boers from Germany. When at last President Kruger fled to Europe he was accorded the reception due to a hero in France and Holland, but was coldly turned down by the royal master at Berlin.

Now the kaiser is encouraging Russia. He has again picked the side that is getting the worst of it and is helping to keep the war going. His position at Kiao-Chau gives ground for his sympathy. But he has no intention to do any of the fighting—not he. He will be ready at the end of the war, or sooner, to sell guns and ship material to either belligerent and to sell many things used in time of peace. The longer the war lasts the less fear has Germany that Russia or Japan will be serious commercial rivals in the near future and the greater is the chance that they will be consumers of German manufactures.

Before the American-Spanish war Germany was running a hard race to overtake Great Britain in commerce and industry and was in mortal fear of the American invasion. Germany was laboring under the handicap of a terribly costly military establishment. The war and the subsequent boom in this country relieved Germany of some of the pressure of American competition. During the Boer-English war and since Germany has passed Great Britain in several lines of manufacture and trade, and England is not yet rid of the burden of taxation inflicted by that struggle. Such is the method in the kaiser's war madness. With his military establishment he keeps up the constant threat that compels other world powers to increase their national defenses. His country bears a military burden by virtue of its position and ambitions; very well, he can make other nations carry a similar load and their industries are thus handicapped also.

It is probably to the kaiser's credit that his real sympathies are all with Germany. His fundamental policy is mercenary. He "jollies" the loser in the game of war to get him and his antagonist in deeper. It is a fine play. However, it can hardly be kept up much longer. The kaiser's Uncle Edward has brought about an understanding between England and France and Portugal and Italy that materially reduces the power of Germany to frighten them. There is an approach toward bringing Russia into the understanding, and Austria-Hungary is so torn internally as to be an inconsiderable factor. By and by Germany will be surrounded and will cease to be a standing threat against the peace of the world and the kaiser will be fortunate, indeed, if he does not suffer for it.

The Business Situation.

The distinctive feature of the present reaction in trade is the absence of apprehension regarding the future. More than a year ago experienced business men foresaw what is now taking place. They were not deceived by the specious argument originating in Wall street that this country had entered upon an entirely new course which rendered obsolete all the old charts, if not the principles, of finance and trade. This same class of business men express confidence over the outlook for next year. They feel that the present reaction must run its course, but they also appreciate that the hand-to-mouth policy being pursued by both producers and consumers will maintain a healthy state of trade. No one is piling up stocks which would have to be unloaded at a sacrifice in case of a recurrence of monetary stringency. On the other hand, no one is buying more than is necessary to meet current requirements, and therefore is not incurring obligations for future delivery which may be defaulted. The only real uncertainty as to the future relates to the crops. If these are up to the average there will be a good foundation upon which to build for 1905. If they should fall below the average, the recovery in business will be slower, but it will not be attended or retarded by the disturbing factors which accompanied short-crop years in the past. There will be no assaults upon the currency to be met, and there will be no government bond issues to preserve the treasury gold reserve. While a spirit of caution pervades the entire business situation, there is at the same time a strong undercurrent of optimism.

The most important change in commodity values during the week was in cotton. There were violent declines on Wednesday and Thursday, carrying the price to the lowest level of the year. Compared with last January's highest price the shrinkage is nearly 6 cents a pound, which is almost if not altogether unprecedented within the same length of time and under similar circumstances. A careful canvass of crop conditions shows the latter to be more favorable than last year, and there has been a considerable increase in acreage. The season is late, but present indications are for more than an average crop of good quality. We depend upon the cotton crop for early exports to draw gold hither at a season when the country is drawing upon its balances in New York. Last year the movement was retarded by the abnormally high prices, which subsequent events proved were largely the result of speculation. For instance, in July and August, 1903, we exported only 52,000,000 pounds, as compared with 138,000,000 pounds in the corresponding months in 1902 and 203,000,000 pounds in the like period of 1901. The declining price and the prospects for a good crop should produce conditions favorable to large and early exports this year, which should have the effect of restoring to us a portion of the gold sent abroad this spring.

In industrial circles there has been further contraction in the volume of business. This condition is gradually extending all over the country, and is reflected in decreasing railroad earnings in the northwest and the southwest, as well as in New England and the middle states. It is quite likely that there will be a considerable curtailment of pig iron production this month, which will involve a smaller movement of ore, fuel and limestone, and will tend to further reduce earnings of railroads traversing the industrial section. This prospect is one of the causes for the present stagnation in the stock market. Investors are apparently waiting to see whether the reports of contraction in trade will not influence holders of securities to sell at lower prices, hence they are holding off. Owners of investment securities, however, are unable to see how they can improve their position by selling, and the speculative holders of stocks have an easier task in carrying them on margin than at any previous time in years. In other words, the stock market is in a technically strong position, and only the unexpected event is likely to cause any serious decline.

Talked of in Gotham

By GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 3.—Bohemia dies hard in Manhattan. Bohemia used to be typified mainly by the table d'hote, where spaghetti was the piece de resistance, washed down by vin ordinaire which set the artistic soul keenly on edge, and inspired all kinds of smartness of tongue and pen. Of late years the gaudy eating houses of upper Broadway and Sixth avenue at one end of the island and the palatial lunch rooms of Wall street at the other, have gradually driven to the wall the low ceiled, cheap papered, Italian and French dining rooms, with their many black legged little tables, upon which raffish looking cruets and slim sticks of bread thrust into vases were always on view from morning to night. There are foreign restaurants still in existence, mostly to the west of Washington square, and you may find a crowd of good fellows, with Van Dyke beards and velvet coats, in them any evening. But the 40-cent table d'hote as an institution has been melting away for 10 years.

Riccadonna, whose place in Union square used to be a favorite resort of visiting Pittsburghers in the eighties, but who was obliged to leave his old stand and go uptown through decreasing business and who died, discouraged, two or three years ago, will not be forgotten, however. Someone has just started a restaurant in Twenty-fifth street under the old name. It looks familiar as it stands forth on a black sign in all the glory of gilt lettering, and doubtless many people will go there, for old times' sake. Then there is Maria's, as well as Riccadonna's. Maria moved up from the Washington square district to Forty-fourth street not long ago, but she found herself in the wrong atmosphere. She could not compete with the plate glass and electric sign lobster palaces, and now she is coming back to her old stamping ground. The "Black Cat" is another of the old places which is falling into the sere and yellow. It does business, but not as much as did a decade ago. The struggle of the Bohemian restaurant for existence it pitiful, and none the less so because the dying fight is such a desperate one.

Wail of "Tin Pan Alley."

"Tin Pan alley" was excited today as it has not been for many years. The announcement that Howley, Dresser & Co., one of the most prominent music publishing firms in the city, had gone into voluntary bankruptcy, came as a shock in which surprise was as powerful an element as regret. It bears out a remark I made in these letters a few days ago, that there are no big song hits in sight for this summer. If there were, this firm most likely would have had some of them.

Paul Dresser, who wrote "Just Tell Them That You Saw Me," "On the Banks of the Wabash," and a dozen or so of other popular compositions of seven or eight years ago, has not given us anything of great moment of late, and that may have something to do with the troubles of the firm. Fred Haviland, who used to be a member of the house, broke away within a year and is conducting an independent business. It may be that the music publishing industry has been rather overdone in late years. That is an opinion freely expressed along "Tin Pan alley."

Pu Lun Liked the Girls.

Pu Lun and his suite went behind the scenes of a theater in which a spectacular musical comedy is running, last night. The distinguished Chinaman said that it was all so different to anything he had seen in his theaters at home, but he did not say that the American method was not preferable. His highness admired the show girls, and laughed heartily at a characteristic remark by Chauncey Depew, who was present, that "this is hardly the place for a newly married man."

Sully Takes Any Seat.

Daniel J. Sully, the ex-cotton king, takes the position that his pew in St. Bartholomew's church, one of the most fashionable places of worship in the metropolis, cannot be called a general asset, and that his creditors cannot take it from him. He bought the pew just before his failure, but did not get the deed. The receivers got hold of it, and are waiting for the courts to decide whether they can keep it. Mr. Sully insists that his pew is exempt. Meanwhile he takes any seat he can get when he attends St. Bartholomew's.

More Safety for Pedestrians.

At one of the "L" stations in the drygoods district, where there are big department stores filling two or three blocks, a gallery has been built over the tracks so that shoppers can descend to either side of Sixth avenue direct from the station. This is a capital idea. The avenue is one of the most dangerous in the city to pedestrians, with the elevated trains roaring overhead, street cars plunging along at a steam railroad rate below, and a mass of wagons and other vehicles filling all the roadway not occupied by the electric cars. The bridge over the tracks will doubtless prevent many runovers and save dozens of lives in the course of a year. Incidentally it suggests that the retail shopping district will not move away from its old quarter for some time to come.

Sentiment for Monument to Green.

Public sentiment in favor of erecting a monument to the late Andrew H. Green, the "father of Greater New York," seems to be growing in New York. The vindication of his memory afforded by the developments in the case of the octogenarian, John H. Platt, and Hannah Elias, has given renewed impetus to the movement for a memorial to Mr. Green, and subscriptions will be taken up methodically as soon as arrangements can be made.

Military Pride of New York.

Greater New York's military pride is centered largely in squadron A, the crack cavalry organization of the city. Its membership includes many wealthy young men, several having been "Rough Riders," who accompanied Theodore Roosevelt to Cuba at the time of the Spanish-American war. When squadron A turns out in full panoply for any reason, there is always an admiring crowd to watch it. "Boots and saddles" was sounded this afternoon for the march to Peekskill for the annual encampment, and when the troops clattered out of the armory for their 56-mile ride, the cheering was tumultuous and spontaneous. They were a fine appearing lot of cavalrymen. It is expected that they will reach Peekskill by Sunday. Maj. O. B. Bridgeman is in command.

Old Sol Reappears.

New York saw sun today. That this is worth noting will be conceded when it is stated that Old Sol had not shown himself to the people of this city since last Monday. This was the fifth day of rain, and more of it is threatened for tonight and tomorrow.

The Quiet Observer

By ERASMUS WILSON.

"Thunderstorm fer br'akfas'—
Lawd he'p de sinnin' sinner!
Win' en hail
Dat never fail,
En lightnin' after dinner!

"But thank de Lawd we livin'
In all de storm en stir!
Miss Mary knows
Dat big red rose
I done brung home fer her!"

—Frank L. Stanton.

That's about the how of it, so to speak.

The trouble with most of us is that we fail to see that big red rose," noting only the wind and rain and thunder.

And there is just where we make the mistakes of our lives—noting the storms and forgetting the sunshine and growing weather.

Maybe you haven't forgotten what you heard said about May, just past, or what you said yourself about it being the worst ever. But the chances are that you failed to note or to be impressed with the weather man's average up for Mays of five years past, which showed that this particular May was, if anything, a little better than the average.

All this goes to show that we are a pack of kickers, and were it not for the Stantons, Rileys, Kisers and the rest of the born poets, the world would rush headlong into a pessimistic condition second only to that which prevails in the infernal regions.

Let us, therefore, be thankful for the optimistic poet, sentimentalist and joker. Theirs is a fine quality of salt without which we would be in great danger of spoiling.

* * * * *

It is not the rollicking, hip sort of fellow that keeps us from going to the dogs; nor is it the long-faced, solemn style of chap, but rather the rough-and-ready fellow. He may have wit, or he may be commonplace, yet he is ever ready for any emergency, and may generally be depended upon to do something.

And we are often surprised to see him doing things which we thought were much too difficult for him, and doing them well. That is because he has a heart for any duty, and when a fellow's heart is right he can do almost anything that may be demanded of him.

You know very well that when you have your heart set on doing anything you are likely to find a way to do it. Maybe you may be a long time about it, but you get there all the same, provided you have patience, which you are apt to have, for patience is of the heart rather than of the mind.

It is important, therefore, that we cultivate the good in children and encourage their generous impulses, so that when they grow into men and women their hearts will know only that which is good and their impulses will be toward the right.

If it rains, why, just let it rain, but keep an eye out for the big red rose, for it surely will bloom somewhere.

* * * * *

"Solemnity Jinkins" they called him, for he
No good in this worl' was created to see;
No matter the season—no matter the place,
"Worl' warn't no friend to amazin', sweet grace!"
An' ever that look that was sad an' forlorn,
An' "trouble's a-comin', as shore as you're born!"

Well, they took him one day to the millpond, an' down
They soused him an' soused him before the whole town!
An' they asked him "Is trouble a-comin', you think?"
An' he spluttered this answer, as quick as a wink—
Lookin' mightily drowned an' mightily grum:—
"I don't think it's comin'—please God, it's done come!"

—Frank L. Stanton.

It would hardly be right to let this fling of Stanton's slip, for it goes to the spot. Evidently he hasn't much use for a pessimist, or more particularly, for a pessimistic cuss.

If it is trouble you are fearing or looking for, it is coming your way sure.

This you may set down as a rule to go by, as we say.

Some say that it is the unexpected that happens, and so it may be, but it is not the unexpected that comes to pass in the regular order of things.

That which happens is that which comes unexpectedly, or out of the usual order.

You may never have thought about this before and for that reason have been using that word rather carelessly, or too promiscuously, so to speak.

* * * * *

Comfort in life, as well as success, is largely a matter of temperament, or temper. We are tools designed for certain work and you know that the value of a tool depends upon the quality of its temper.

If you will take the trouble to look up the causes of the failure of men, and particularly of your own failures, you will find that it was your temper—too soft or too brittle.

Temperament relates to the quality of temper in the individual. Knowing this you will have a better understanding of what wise men mean when they speak of temperaments.

Plainly speaking it is temper, or quality of nerve, that determines the worth of a man.

* * * * *

And after all are we not merely a part of a great scheme and will we not eventually occupy the place for which our temper fits us?

All life is the same in this great universe, but arranged according to its temper or quality. The quality of life in any living creature determines its rank and place in the universe, just as our stations are determined by the life qualities which we possess.

And as it is here may it not be, indeed shall it not be, hereafter?

The relation of the physical world to us is becoming more and more the theme of the philosopher. Following is an excerpt from a careful, helpful study by William Dean Howells in a recent number of Harper's Monthly, which is well worth your attention:

"How much do we really know of the vast scheme of what we call inanimate nature?

"Our human illusion is so complete that beyond its folds we cannot pass to a true comprehension of nature for what it is in itself. We are indeed farther away from such an intuition than were the followers of Pan, who were very humble creatures and had sure instincts, nearer to infinity than our reasonings.

"We behold the physical world only on the side of its descents—its death everywhere, meeting our life; and our pride of transcendency is nourished by the contemplation of this everlasting and faithful service. In our dream the world lets down to us its ladder of life, but we only see the angels descending, not those which ascend.

"It is only as nature stoops to our limited senses, thus entering our doorways, that we are in any way aware of her visitation. She is to us a Sphinx whose riddles are propounded to us from silent lips, we only guessing what they are. We call the physical world dead because it is only its dying side that is presented to us.

"On our globe are vast regions uninhabitated by man. We think of these as insignificant waste places full of the vanity of desolation. We will not allow that the suprises there are beautiful, since there is no human eye to see them—and in that eye alone is there a sense of the beautiful. But the sun rises there just as elsewhere, and the 'glimpses of the moon' illumine the mountains and the valleys.

"May not this nature which turns to us a cold, still face have its own beauty and meaning, apart from our sense or our interpretation? Surely it has its own ascensions, far away out of our sight, along a path we may not follow.

"If we could behold that ascending path, which is hidden even from the scientific vision, the disclosures of that new world would surprise us. We should then retrace the path of a progression which has advanced by increased limitation and sequestration; we should see as One sees who has not eyes; and perhaps—since no door shuts but another door is opened, and with every outfolding of the curtain there is a hidden infolding—it might be given us to behold what is becoming in that unseen world of which ours offers us but the broken pattern."

Where Nothing Is Bright.

"The electric searchlight," said the old salt, "is incomparably better than the old whale oil lamp. Yet in a fog it can penetrate no farther. That is where the fog-horn comes in. Whenever you hear a ship or a shipmate blowing his horn continually, there isn't much else doing."

Our Casual Guests

THE STROLLER.

Sandy is a chef whose extensive knowledge of the culinary art has always made him a popular individual. He wears his duck clothes in a downtown hostelry much frequented by men. While watching him prepare a cup of clam broth, my curiosity grew apace.

"Sandy," said I, "what is the most popular single kind of food that you are called upon to serve?"

"Oysters. During the height of the season I prepare hardly anything else. Then I use, on an average, about a barrel a day."

"What is the favorite way of having them cooked?"

"Well, suppose we divide them into classes, according to drinks. The whisky drinkers like theirs raw, on the half-shell. The beer people like them in cocktails, with catsup. The coffee men prefer theirs stewed. The man from the country nearly always orders his fried.

"And here is rather a remarkable thing about the man from the country town, especially an inland place. He comes in here hungry, not knowing what he wants. Then the very first thing he will order is fish, or oysters, or some sea product. Apparently he doesn't get enough of either at home.

Quay, Dying, Made a Destiny.

I recognized him instantly. The clear, fresh, young face, the erect carriage, the little cap, all proclaimed the student. He sat on a leather divan in the hotel lobby, as I walked up to him and touched his shoulder. I learned his name and class, found that he was from my own college, and in an instant we were comrades.

"But what are you doing in Pittsburgh?" I asked.

"Going to Annapolis," he replied.

"Does that mean that you have an appointment?"

"Good work. But how did you get the place?"

"Why, you know Senator Quay was up at Morganza just before he left for Beaver, to die. Well, one afternoon he sent for me at little Washington, and made me the present of an appointment to Annapolis. So I'm just starting down there now to get ready for the entrance exams. They come off the 21st of this month."

So, by the words of this young undergraduate was again shown the Cæsarean power of that master politician, who in his dying days, still found the strength to direct the destiny of a young man's life.

Simple Story of a Hero.

He came slowly into Union station, his crutches striking the tiles regularly and firmly. One leg was off above the knee, but the remainder of the man was sound and vigorous. The little Grand Army of the Republic button told the tale. He bought a ticket and sat down beside me.

"It's too hot for an old fellow like me," he said, pulling out his handkerchief and mopping his brow.

"It is for anybody," I replied.

"I'll be glad to get back to Fayette county. Just came over to visit my son. Wanted to see some of the boys while they were in town."

"If you don't think me impertinent, would you mind telling me how you lost your leg?"

"It was during the battle of Hatchs Run. I belonged to company H, Fifty-seventh Pennsylvania. Well, we were ordered to charge the Johnnies across a stubble field. When the line got to the center of the lot, we stopped for some unaccountable reason. As I was about to take another step, a musket flashed to the right of me. The leg which I was just putting forward suddenly felt numb, and on looking down I could see the blood trickling from a place just above the knee. Then when I put my weight on the leg I went down.

"The Johnnies kept up a hot fire, but three of the boys came and dragged me off to a fence corner, out of range. A surgeon ran to me, with a knife and saw in his hand. He stuck a handkerchief under my nose, and when I came to, my leg was gone.

"I stayed in the camp hospital for a while and was then put into a wagon and hauled two miles over a corduroy road to the railway station.

"While I was lying in the Washington hospital, Lee surrendered. On my recovery I returned to my wife and baby in Fayette county, where I've been ever since."

At this point the station crier began to bawl, and the veteran slowly rose to his feet, bade me good-by and went out the door.

Cholly's Baseball Calamity.

He wandered down to Exposition park to see the game. Gladrags, sailor hat and tan toosies, all were resplendently new.

"Ah! A reserved seat, if you please," requested Cholly.

"Nothin' doin'. All gone," said the Box Office.

"But I say. I want to see the golme."

"Well, maybe you can squeeze in on the bleachers."

"Beastly c'wowd, deucher know. Don't fawncy it."

"Try the side lines, then. Make way for the gentleman behind you. Here's your ticket."

Cholly paid his money and took his chance. By chance he found himself a member of a howling little group which stood by the end of the grandstand. The inning was an exciting one, and the huge multitude shrieked and moaned by turns. But finally the end came and the teams began to exchange places.

Cholly had a breathing space, and commenced to look around. Right beside him was a grimy barrel filled with water, equally grimy. Against the barrel leaned a board, which was just long enough to span the open mouth of the barrel.

Cholly's wheels did some unwonted turning, which resulted in his putting the board across the barrel, upon which he agilely clambered. Here he stood, like a Colossus of Rhodes, gazing triumphantly over the heads of his neighbors.

Presently the shrieking and moaning began afresh. Cholly also became enthused and frantically waved his sailor. Then the ball was seen to soar far upward and outward, while pandemonium reigned.

Suddenly there was a sharp crack and the waving Colossus shot downward as though yanked by an invisible force.

But the multitude hardly noticed the interruption, and continued to cheer. Then when comparative silence came, everybody's attention was attracted to that little, howling crowd, which stood around the rain barrel, laughing and shouting vociferously.

A delegation representing the employes of the Pittsburgh Forge and Iron Company was present. The choir of the Third church rendered favorite hymns, these being "Abide With Me," "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "Rock of Ages." Interment followed privately in the family burying ground at the Allegheny cemetery. The honorary pallbearers were Sol Schoyer, Will Schoyer, William Stewart, J. G. Donnell, W. L. Jones and John B. Jackson. The active pallbearers were John B. Townsend of Philadelphia, and F. E. Richardson, J. W. Rhodes, Russell Forsyth, Starling Childs, Frank Severance and Clifford Claney. In addition to Ben G. Wells and wife of Philadelphia, Mrs. C. M. Griggs of St. Paul and Mrs. Annie W. Cook of San Francisco, the children, there were present Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Mrs. Richards, who was aged 88, died on Thursday. She was born on the present site of Uniondale cemetery and was the oldest member of the Reynolds family, pioneer settlers of the North Side, her mother, Mrs. Nancy Neal Reynolds, having come to Allegheny from Ballymoney, Ireland, in 1800, and resided there till her death in 1879, aged 94. Mrs. Richards is survived by three children, George W. Richards, who is connected with the Allegheny bureau of health; Mrs. William Craig of No. 200 North Craig street; Mrs. William R. Reno of Maryland avenue; 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. The only remaining member of the old family is Miss Hannah Neal Reynolds.

William Bell.

William Bell, aged 65, well known in North Side politics, died yesterday morning at his home, No. 508 Jackson street, Allegheny, of injuries received in a fall. Two years ago Mr. Bell fractured his hip by falling in Smithfield street and since then had to use crutches. Thursday night he slipped on the wet steps while leaving the Union club in East Diamond street and was hurt about the head. For years he was engineer at the River avenue pumping station and was appointed county boiler inspector when William A. Stone became governor of the state. Mr. Bell was a son of James and Janet Bell, who came to this country from Scotland. He was born in Allegheny and during the civil war served three years in the United States navy. Two brothers, Andrew of Allegheny, and Alexander of California, and a sister, Mrs. Annie Percy, of Connellsville, survive.

Thomas McBride.

Thomas McBride, twice mayor of New Castle and first lieutenant of company D, of the One Hundred and Thirty-fourth Pennsylvania volunteers, Col. M. S. Quay's regiment, died Thursday night at his home in Philadelphia. His body will be taken to New Castle today for burial. He was 76 years old and was born in Scott township, Lawrence county. For several years before the war he was a merchant in Harlinsburg. After serving in the One Hundred and Thirty-fourth regiment he enlisted in Col. Robert B. McComb's regiment from Lawrence county and served in West Virginia. Later he was in business at New Castle. He was the first mayor of New Castle and later he was re-elected. He married Miss Lydo Winan, who survives him, with one daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Beisel of Philadelphia.

Miss Grace Applegate.

Miss Grace Applegate, a popular young woman of Brownsville, Pa., died yesterday morning at St. John's hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., of typhoid fever, after an illness of two weeks. She had just been graduated as a professional nurse at the hospital when stricken with the fever. Miss Applegate was the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Applegate of Brownsville, her father being the editor of the Brownsville Clipper. Besides her parents, one sister, Miss Mary F. Applegate, until recently society editress of the Pittsburgh Post, and two brothers survive. Miss Applegate's father and sister were at her bedside when she passed away. The remains will be taken to Brownsville for interment.

LOSS OF CANAL MAY BE BENEFIT

Nicaraguan Government Proposes to Interlace Isthmus With Railroads.

NEW FIELDS OF ENTERPRISE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.

Senor Luis F. Corea, the Nicaraguan minister, is back in Washington with a tale of increased prosperity in his country and little disappointment because the isthmian canal was not built by that route. Said he today:

"Nicaragua is not crying over spilled milk. We couldn't get the canal, but we will have the next best thing, an isthmian railway.

"The canal was always to us a sort of a will-o'-the-wisp, which held out an alluring prospect that could never be realized, and worked harm since it distracted enterprise from other fields. To the question as to what is to be done for the industrial development of the country without hope of the canal, the government has responded manfully 'Build railways.'

"That is what we are doing. And if it did not sound too much like the sour grapes proposition I might say that perhaps after all Nicaragua may not suffer from the loss of the canal, and that when her wonderfully rich fields are interlaced with railways bearing products swiftly from port to port on either seaboard, then indeed perhaps Panama may after all have to look to her laurels.

"Last week there sailed from New York a party of engineers furnished by A. M. Slack and Company, who are to begin the initial work in laying the tracks commencing at San Miguelito, on the southeast shore of Lake Nicaragua. There is, of course, the break at Lake Nicaragua where steamers must be taken for 50 miles across to Granada. From Granada there is already a railroad built along the shore of Lake Managua and operating the Corinto.

"The eastern terminal of the line is to be Monkey Point, an excellent Atlantic port, shut in by the hills and affording fine facilities for development. Monkey Point, by the way, is not an euphonius name to us, and it will be given a new title after one of our national heroes. The place was named by the English, just as Bluefields was.

"I can state almost positively that the surveys for this new road, which is to be known as the Atlantic railway, will be completed by July. We expect to have the road itself finished and in operation across the isthmus within a year and a half. The best equipment and rolling stock will be provided, and there will be no delay at the junction point at Lake Nicaragua, where swift steamers will make the trip across.

"There is still another railroad being surveyed. This is from Jinotega in the western part of the republic, to Cape Gretnas, at the northeast corner. With these railroads undoubtedly a new era of prosperity will open for Nicaragua."

TO ORGANIZE GOVERNMENT FOR PANAMA CANAL ZONE

Attorney General Knox Sends Charles W. Russell to Isthmus.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(Special.)—Assistant Attorney General Charles W. Russell, who, with Judge Day, returned here a few days ago from Paris, where they assisted in the transfer to the United States of the title to the Panama canal property, has gone to Panama by direction of Attorney General Knox to assist in the organization of the government over the canal zone.

So far as the laws of Colombia and Panama are found to fit the new conditions, they will be adopted by the United States. Mr. Russell will co-operate with Gen. Davis, the governor of the canal strip, and when the work is completed he will make a detailed report to the attorney general.

DEWEY OFFICIATED.

Admiral Laid Corner Stone of Naval Academy's New Chapel.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., June 3.—Admiral George Dewey officiated today at the laying of the corner stone of the new chapel in the naval academy grounds. Secretary of the Navy Moody delivered an address.

Among the articles placed in a copper box beneath the stone were autograph photographs of President Roosevelt, Secretary Moody, Admiral Dewey, Capt. W. H. Brownson, superintendent of the naval academy, and Ernest Flagg of New York, the architect for the new naval academy; Schley's history of the naval academy, copies of Annapolis and Baltimore daily papers, a roster of the officers now attached to the naval academy, regulations governing the admission of candidates to the academy and examination papers of candidates who passed the recent entrance examination.

During the day the board of visitors witnessed a battle drill of the midshipmen on the Severn river. The flotilla of war vessels now anchored in the harbor was utilized for this exhibition. The midshipmen will leave for their summer cruise Monday morning.

EGGERS GOT SALARY.

City Librarian of Allegheny Draws First Money Since His Appointment.

Librarian Edward E. Eggers of Allegheny Carnegie library called at the city controller's office yesterday and accepted a warrant for 10 days' salary. Organist Caspar P. Koch did not call yesterday but will likely stop at the office today. Both of these men are now "experts" by reason of the passage of an ordinance by councils. They are not amenable to the provision in the charter ordinance relative to city employes. This measure went into effect 10 days before the first of the month and it was for the last 10 days of May that Eggers was paid. Controller Brown had a talk with Eggers and advised him how to proceed in councils to obtain the salary he has not received since he took office April 1.

DENEEN IS NOMINATED FOR ILLINOIS' GOVERNOR

Stubborn Republican Deadlock Is Finally Broken by Gov. Yates and Other Candidates, Against the Lowden Forces.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., June 3.—By making a combination with Charles S. Deneen, L. Y. Sherman, Howland J. Hamlin and John H. Pierce, Governor Yates today broke the deadlock in the Republican state convention and brought about the nomination of Deneen for governor. The nomination was made on the seventy-ninth ballot which stood: Yates 1; Lowden 522½; Deneen 957½; Warner 21.

The combination was the result of a series of conferences which were had last night and this morning. The agreement had not been consummated when the convention met at 10 o'clock this morning. The Yates and Deneen people forced a recess until 2 p. m. When the convention reconvened, Yates, Hamlin and Sherman withdrew their names, and urged their friends to vote for Deneen.

When the seventy-ninth roll-call was ordered and Adams county led off with "one vote for Yates and 19 for Deneen," the wildest excitement prevailed. As the call proceeded it became evident that the new combination in Illinois politics would win but the original Lowden men for the most part remained firm and went to defeat with him. When the roll was completed, Lowden moved to make the nomination unanimous and Chairman Cannon declared the motion carried.

All of the pent-up enthusiasm of the delegates manifested itself as Deneen came to the platform and briefly thanked the convention for the honor. In response to the demands of the assemblage, Col. Lowden made an address pledging his support to the ticket.

At an evening session I. N. Sherman of McDonough was nominated for lieutenant governor; James A. Rose of Golconda, (present incumbent) for secretary of state; Ren Small of Kankakee for state treasurer; James McCullough of Champaign, (present incumbent) for state auditor; W. H. Stead of Ottawa for attorney general.

Residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hunt Robbed and Trusted Servants Suspected.

Jewels worth $800 were stolen yesterday from the house of E. E. Hunt of 621 College avenue. A negro butler and maid, supposed to be man and wife, are suspected of stealing the jewelry, and the police are hunting for them. When Mr. Hunt first reported the robbery to the police he was under the impression that only $100 worth of stuff had been taken, but Mrs. Hunt, on making a closer investigation, said the following things were gone: A pair of diamond earrings, a brooch, necklace and locket, the latter set with diamonds, a gold watch and fob, valued at $125, and a number of jeweled stickpins, the whole worth $800.

Some other jewelry was overlooked, and the thieves left behind some gold coins presented to Mrs. Hunt by the congregation of the Fourth Presbyterian church, of which she is organist.

Mrs. Hunt said last night that about two weeks ago she hired a negro and his wife, John and Sarah Williams, on the recommendation of a servant in another house. Yesterday Mrs. Hunt went out of the house, leaving her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Marshall, in the house. Mr. Marshall was called downstairs to see a plumber, who called to make repairs. Shortly afterward Sarah and John were seen by the neighbors leaving the house. When Mrs. Hunt returned she found the jewelry gone from the dresser drawer and notified the police. Two plain clothes men went to the former boarding place of the negro couple, in Station street, and found that they had been there a half hour before, but had left.

MAJORITY IN FAVOR OF BEING ANNEXED

Elliott Borough Taxpayers Hold a Meeting and Want to Be Part of City.

The citizens of Elliott borough held a mass meeting in the Westlake school house last night to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of annexation to the city of Pittsburgh. The building was crowded and the sentiment of those present was overwhelmingly in favor of annexation.

Prof. W. M. McCullough principal of the Thirty-sixth ward schools presided and made an address in which he emphasized the advantages of annexation in the way of police protection, lights, fire protection and tax reduction. Prof. Samuel Anderson, city superintendent of schools made plain the educational advantages. Several Pittsburg officials were on the program for addresses but did not put in an appearance. The opposition fight is being conducted by saloon keepers, the annexation meaning an increase of $750 a year in the liquor license.

A petition to the court of quarter sessions has been signed by 459 tax payers of the borough.

PERSONALS

Capt. George M. Baird, United States navy, who is superintendent of the war and navy department building in Washington, spent yesterday in Pittsburgh on his way to the world's fair. "Politically, Washington is very quiet," said Capt. Baird last evening at the Hotel Henry. "From a Republican standpoint, President Roosevelt is the choice. The Democrats, I believe, have come nearer uniting on a man than many of us think. Parker is the man." Capt. Baird was asked if there is a possibility of Admiral Schley coming in as a dark horse at the Democratic convention. He said: "Schley is an awfull good fellow, but the people have ceased talking about him. Yes, he is a strong friend of Arthur Pue Gorman, and Gorman might be able to do something with him in the convention, but I seriously doubt it."

Commander Charles Walz and Past Post Commander Edward Abel of Duquesne post No. 259, Grand Army of the Republic, representatives to the department encampment, leave on Monday to attend the encampment, to be held at Gettysburg next week.

Edward Brennan, for years a special officer in Riverview park, Allegheny, left last night for a two months' visit to Ireland, where he was born 55 years ago. Mr. Brennan lives in the Twelfth ward, Allegheny, and has been actively engaged in the politics of the city since he located there 30 years ago.

The heads of the departments of the Mesta Machine Company, which is at West Homestead, held a meeting yesterday at the Hotel Henry, following by a dinner. About 20 were present and discussed the condition of the works. When seen at the Henry last evening George Mesta said that business was improving. He intimated that next year would equal and perhaps surpass 1903 in point of production, although he thought wages would be lower.

Francis J. Torrance left last night for New York on a business trip.

Congressman H. Kirke Porter left for St. Louis last night on the southwest limited. Mr. Porter has on exhibition several engines made by the firm of which he is the senior member.

The Rev. J. S. Plumer and wife of Cadiz, O.; Mrs. E. V. Blain and Miss Rebecca Beach, sisters of Mrs. Plumer, left last night over the Pennsylvania railroad on a trip to Europe. They expect to be away three months.

REMOVAL OF THIEL FAVORED BY SYNOD

Overwhelming Majority of Delegates So Vote at the Meeting in Wheeling.

FIGHT BY GREENVILLE PEOPLE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WHEELING, W. VA., June 3.—The Pittsburgh synod of the German Lutheran church devoted almost the entire day to a discussion of the question of removing Thiel college from Greenville to Greensburg, and finally decided by an overwhelming majority to remove the institution, if it can legally be done. The vote showed that the sentiment of the synod has not changed since the removal was first decided on two years ago, yet the Greenville people stubbornly resisted this action. The recommendation by President Geissinger that the college be discontinued found little support.

The scene in the church was very impressive during the morning session, when the debate threatened to become heated, and at the suggestion of one of the ministers Dr. H. W. Roth arose, and, with all the delegates standing, he made an earnest and fervent prayer for Divine guidance. The discussion was opened in the morning on the reading of the report of the trustees of the college by the secretary, J. Boyd Duff of Pittsburgh. The report stated that the board has been enjoined from removing the institution from Greenville and the functions of the college were suspended in consequence, the students being temporarily cared for in the Greensburg seminary. The board had taken steps to amend the charter of the college in accordance with the decision of the supreme court, with a view to its removal to Greensburg, and asked the synod to indorse its action. The Rev. Dr. Balfour, of the committee to which the president's recommendation was referred, stated that the committee had no report to make. Mr. Duff read a statement from the citizens of Greenville pledging the sum of $10,000, if the college is reopened there.

Dr. D. L. Roth of Pittsburgh opposed the removal. He stated that the college had been nearly wrecked and that seventenths of the alumni wanted it to remain at Greenville, where it would be surrounded by the traditions and influences of the past. The Rev. Mr. Glaetzart, an alumnus of the college, pleaded for its retention at Greenville, and the Rev. G. L. Rankin of Greenville stated that the fault of the college being closed now rested with the board. It was generally accepted as a fact that it will be possible to comply with the order of the court and still remove the college to Greensburg, the method being an amendment of the charter. The sentiment in favor of removal was so strong that the faction favoring the retention of the college at Greenville gave up the fight before a vote was taken and did not insist upon a roll call.

CONVENTION OF ENGINEERS.

State Association to Ask Legislature to Pass Bill for Their Benefit.

The sixth annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of Stationary Engineers is being held in the Moorehead hall. About 30 delegates are present. The object of the association is to educate the members and to secure such legislation as will benefit them. The members will make an effort to have a law passed compelling engineers in second and third class cities to be licensed as in first class cities, which at present only affects Philadelphia.

Samuel B. Forse is president. This morning the election of officers will be held, and indications are Charles W. Snyder of Philadelphia will be chosen president.

After hearing reports from committees and the appointments of convention committees yesterday's session adjourned to permit the delegates to take a carriage drive through the principal streets of the city. A boat ride has been arranged for this afternoon.

BELIEVE THAT PENROSE MUST BREAK DEADLOCK

HARRISBURG, June 3.—(Special.)—Another futile attempt to break the Republican senatorial deadlock in the Franklin-Huntingdon district was made here today, after which the conference adjourned to meet again in Harrisburg June 17. Two ballots were taken at today's session, the Franklin county men voting for Senator Alexander Stewart of Scotland and the Huntingdon county men for Allen S. Welch of Mt. Union. Neither candidate shows any sign of yielding and the indications are the deadlock will continue until Senator Penrose, as state chairman, casts the deciding vote as umpire, under the state rules.

SOCIETY

rain yesterday afternoon interfered in no way with the handsome reception given from 4 until 6 o'clock by Miss Martha H. Childs at her home in South Linden avenue, Point Breeze. The affair was altogether one of the most daintily appointed and enjoyable of the early summer. There was no guest of honor. Miss Childs received her hundreds of guests alone. Among those who assisted through the house were Mrs. Henry Clay Frick, Mrs. Asa P. Childs, Jr., Mrs. J. H. Childs, Mrs. George T. Bissell, Mrs. William Nimick Frew, Mrs. William Carr, Mrs. William J. Holland, Mrs. Joseph Hunter, Mrs. Charles Clapp, Mrs. Joseph R. Woodwell, Mrs. Albert H. Childs, Mrs. Henry Scully, Mrs. Annie Denny Corcoran and Miss Martha Howard.

Miss Childs' home, standing slightly back from the street, with its verandas filled with blooming plants and palms, was simply decorated yesterday. The dainty pink and white drawing room, where the guests were received, had a few clusters of pink sweet peas, orange blossoms and mock orange blossoms. A small green basket filled with very pale pink sweet peas was placed on the white mantelshelf. The deep crimson of peonies contrasted with the soft pinks in the dress room just beyond the drawing room. This apartment has a beamed ceiling of rich dark green and is furnished in mission furniture, which, with the low, swinging windows, make a most cheerful and homelike room. At one side of the archway in the hall was a graceful palm and a cluster of red peonies, while purple orchids were on the table. Four small dark green vases on the dining room table were filled with purple and white gloxenia, these forming the only decorations in the room finished in mahogany and white with tapestry walls. A feature of the reception was the serving of refreshments in the pergola at the rear of the house. Just beyond it were the beds of many colored pansies and the smooth, green lawn.

Class Day at the College.

The cast for "A Masque of Culture," the class day play at the Pennsylvania College for Women, is as follows: Minerva, a goddess, Miss Edna McKee; Socrates, a Greek philosopher, Miss Nancy Blair; Confucius, a Chinese philosopher, Miss Rebecca Eggers; Zenobia, a Palmyran queen, Miss Jessie Gray; Charlotte, a Boston flight, Miss Lyda Young; Gertrude, a New York success, Miss Elizabeth Carpenter; Maximilla R. Shantmore, a defender of women, Miss Helen Thomas; Portia, a Venetian belle, Miss Harriet Kerr; Hypatia, an Athenian lady, Miss Elizabeth Pew; Cassandra, a Trojan prophetess, Miss Francis Fitzgibbon; Lady Jane Grey, an English peeress, Miss Florence Van Wagner; the messenger, Miss Helen Moore; delegates, the members of the freshman class. The sophomores will serve as ushers, and the play will be directed by Miss Louis J. Little. The march of the collegiates on the campus, the presentation of the spade by the seniors to the freshmen and the singing of the class song composed by Miss Blair, will conclude the class day exercises this afternoon. Miss Helen Thomas will make the presentation speech and the response will be by Miss Marean Walker.

The alumnae held their annual business meeting yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The new class was welcomed into the association and there were numerous reports. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. William Barker; vice president, Miss Jane B. Clarke; secretary, Miss Elsie Braun; treasurer, Miss Anne Houston, and four editors for the Alumnae Recorder, Miss Anna Myra Petty, Miss Mary Shrom, Miss Nancy Clarke and Mrs. Everett Jones.

The toasts at the alumnae dinner made the event at interesting feature of the day. Mrs. Roy C. Cooper gave "The Welcome to the Class," to which Miss Edna McKee, the president of the seniors just admitted, responded. Mrs. Richard E. Conklett spoke on "The Progress of the Age," and Mrs. John M. Barden talked of "College Mates." "The College on the Hill" was the subject of Dr. Martin's toast and the evening was concluded by the singing of the college song, "The Purple and White," to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne."

Many guests were in attendance at the art exhibit and reception during the afternoon. The affair was under the direction of Miss Jane Bostwick, assisted by Miss Jean Martin, Miss Lena Hitchcock, Miss Ruth Porter and Miss Jean Rollings.

There are several visitors in the college at present among them being Mrs. John Van Wagener and Miss Nellie Van Wagener of Longon, O.; Miss Ruth Johnston class of 1903, who has just completed a graduate course at Bryn Mawr, and Miss Florence Purves of Butler.

Military Euchre and Dance.

Two entertainments were given yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Kennedy in Forbes street. During the afternoon Miss Lucy Kennedy gave a military euchre in honor of Mrs. Arthur Emil Braun, a recent bride, and Miss Edna Moore of Arnold, Pa., whose engagement to George Plumer Kline of Greensburg was recently announced. Ten tables were in play, each table representing a different country. The prizes sent to those seated at "Japan," with Miss Ruth Holden as the captain. The score was kept by means of flags and in the refreshments the military idea was further carried out. Miss Kennedy received her guests in the drawing room. A great bunch of hugs red peonies, standing out in contrast to the soft yellow in which the room is finished, formed the only decoration. The house with its spacious library and the den adjoining. These rooms, finished exactly alike, with walls of green and mahogany woodwork, were decorated with an immense cluster of white peonies placed on the desk. Palms were massed in the corners of the rooms.

A younger daughter and son, Miss Eliza Kennedy and Julian Kennedy, Jr., were the guests of honor at the dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy in the evening. The rugs were lifted from the library hall and there 60 of the school friends of the two guests of honor spent a very pleasant evening. A buffet supper was served in the hall. The house, with its unusually wide doorways, is an ideal place for a dance, and both affairs yesterday were perfect in their appointments.

SUSAN B. ANTHONY MADE PRESIDENT

Head of the New International League for Promotion of Woman's Suffrage.

MRS. COTT IS SECRETARY

By MALCOLM CLARKE.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, June 3.—Miss Susan B. Anthony, the great apostle of woman's suffrage, today was elected president of the International League for the Promotion of Woman's Suffrage, organized here today. She, in an interview today, said, in part: "You may tell the women of America that the cause of equal rights for women is growing in Europe as it is in America. The progress here is not so rapid, perhaps, as in our own country, because of the intense conservatism, but since my last visit, more than 20 years ago, the growth of the idea of the equality of the sexes has been remarkable. I probably will not live to see the day when the political, financial and social equality of woman with man is universally recognized, but that day surely is coming."

Delegates were present at the convention from Great Britain, France, Germany and Holland, Sweden, Austria-Hungary, Switzerland, Denmark and New Zealand. Miss Susan B. Anthony accepted the presidency of the league, but announced that she would leave the actual work of presiding to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of Wyoming, who was elected secretary. Dr. Anita Augspurg, a German delegate, remarked that the foundation of the International League for Woman's Suffrage was a historical event. She welcomed the delegates and especially thanked Miss Anthony for undertaking a long journey across the ocean at her advanced age to preside at the foundation of the league.

The platform declares that men and women were born equal and free and independent members of society and that the natural relationship of the sexes is one of reciprocity and common effort. The suppression of the liberty of one sex inevitably injures the other, thus causing damage to all humanity. Self determination in the house and state is the inalienable right of every normal adult person, hence women, as a class and as an individual, does not owe obedience to the state or to her husband. Every government taxing women without permitting suffrage exercises tyranny, irreconcilable with justice. Suffrage is the only means for asserting the personal rights which the American Declaration of Independence recognized as inviolable, and all modern constitutions accept the same position. Constitutional states must, therefore, grant suffrage, irrespective of sex.

Mrs. Catt was presented with a gavel from the Wyoming women. She afterward addressed the conference, explaining how woman suffrage came to be adopted in Wyoming.

BENJAMIN THAW'S SON THROWN FROM HIS PONY

Young Man Was Picked Up Unconscious in the Street at Newport.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEWPORT, R. I., June 3.—While riding his pony without a saddle, cowboy fashion, William Thaw, son of Benjamin Thaw of Pittsburgh, was thrown in Bellevue avenue this afternoon. Those who saw the accident and hurried to him, found him lying unconscious on the sidewalk where he had fallen, and it was thought that he had been killed. In a neighboring street, where he was taken, he regained consciousness after he had been worked over for some time, and tonight it was said that save for the painful bruises he had suffered no serious injury.

Young Thaw, who is 17 years of age, delights in doing circus stunts on his horse and his cleverness and daring has often attracted attention. This afternoon, in front of the Casino, his pony became fractious, and, dashing onto the sidewalk, showed an inclination to unseat Master Thaw, which he finally succeeded in doing, throwing the young man over his head. Thaw fell heavily on the bricks on his shoulder and head.

CHINESE DELIVERS SCHOOL ORATION

PITTSBURGHERS AT THE SHORE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Young's Ocean Pier.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 3.

Wo Chao Chow, son of Wu Ting Fang, the former Chinese minister, who has been a student at the Atlantic City high school for two years, tonight was at the head of the senior class at the commencement exercises held in the ballroom of the Steel pier. He fell to the lot of the young Chinaman to deliver the valedictory and following the pet subject of his father he chose as his subject: "The Conservatism of the East." It was clever enough to evoke much applause. He said in part: "Better 50 years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay." Such was the comment of Tennyson on the conservatism of the east, and such is the voice of the west today. That eastern conservatism impedes western progress, hinders modern civilization, blocks Christian endeavors are facts to be lamented for the cause of eastern development, but conservatism is by no means a bitter enemy to progress. On the contrary, it is an element which helps it in the end.

Nervous energy cannot be lasting any more than motion can be perpetual. Progressiveness is a mark of youth and since nations have to grow old, hence they have to adopt conservatism, which is a mark of age. The youth may ridicule the aged for his conservatism, but when the youth enters old age he, too, shall be ridiculed in turn by the rising generation. An American Tennyson today is justified in saying: "Better 50 years of America than a cycle of Europe."

One of the social affairs of tonight is a progressive euchre given by Miss Estelle M. Scott, daughter of Mrs. D. J. Scott of Pittsburgh, at the Scott cottage in States avenue to a number of her Atlantic City friends. There were 15 tables and the prizes were a seal skin purse for the lady and a smoking set for the man. Each of the players was presented with a souvenir.

Miss Letitia Herron, who has been very ill all winter, is at the Hotel Canfield on Virginia avenue. She is improving rapidly.

H. A. Shipley is spending a few days at the Southern hotel.

Mrs. Harry N. Trimble and Mrs. C. Livingstone are spending the week at the Raleigh.

Miss Katherine M. Edwards and Miss G. R. Kelly are guests at the Marlborough house.

Mrs. C. Brehl and daughter are Pittsburgh guests at the Leland.

E. B. Blynds is a guest at the Hotel Holmhurst.

Among the Pittsburghers on the boardwalk today were Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Simmons and Miss Harriet Simmons.

H. W. Redman is spending a few days at the Hotel Delmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Stadler are staying for a few days at the Ansonia.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Davenport are at Green's hotel for a brief stay.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fisher are at Young's hotel where they will remain over Sunday.

W. F. Andrus is a guest at Green's hotel.

A TIRELESS WORKER.

A Victim of Nervous Debility, Now a Wonder of Vivacity, Explains the Marvel of the Change.

Mrs. Dora B. Frazier, of No. 140 Althea street, Providence, Rhode Island, is today the very embodiment of vivacity. She is an energetic forewoman in a large laboratory and shows no traces of her recent long struggle with nervous prostration succeeding typhoid pneumonia.

"My illness began in 1898," says Mrs. Frazier, "and lasted for about three years in all, and for three months I was confined to my bed. I made occasional attempts to work, but I could only manage to put in two or three days out of a week at the very best. Several times I was actually at the point of death.

"I had a good physician but he could not succeed in getting me out of my weak state. It was hard for me to retain any food and my weight dropped down to seventy-five pounds. I had a great deal of dizziness and suffocating spells. One of my legs was swollen so as to interfere with my walking. I could get scarcely any sleep, my color was very pale and I suffered from irregularities that are very painful and depressing to women.

"I dragged out month after month of such an existence. Then I read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in a Providence paper and I thought I would just try them. Before I got through the first box I said to my mother: Why, these pills are certainly doing me good. We both grew hopeful and I kept on taking them steadily for six or seven months and then occasionally for some time longer, and all the time my troubles kept lessening until at last they were gone altogether. I got rid of indigestion, headaches, nervousness, sleeplessness, dragging sensations and irregularities of every kind and my weight ran up thirty-two pounds.

"It is more than a year since I took up my full work and in all that time I have not lost a day through illness. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made me a well woman and I have no lack of strength or cheerful spirits."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a specific for all diseases of the blood and nerves. They are sold by all druggists throughout the world.

AMONG THE CLUBS

Planning for Flag Day.

The Pittsburgh Daughters of the American Revolution are planning for a very delightful celebration of Flag day June 14. The observance of the day will take the form of a reception at the Pittsburgh Golf clubhouse from 3 o'clock until 6 in the afternoon, and an address will be delivered by Miss Sara H. Killikelly on "The Louisiana Purchase." The committee in charge of the entertainment was announced yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Pittsburgh chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in the Twentieth Century clubhouse. The committee includes Miss Julia Morgan Harding, Mrs. William H. Cassiday, Mrs. William A. Hall, Mrs. A. M. Imbrie, Mrs. J. J. Miller, Mrs. Jessie T. Lazear, Mrs. William M. McKelvy, Mrs. William J. Moorhead, Mrs. William H. Schoen and Mrs. C. B. Cecil. The chapter instructed the committee to have the decorations consist entirely of flags, which will later be presented to the summer playgrounds as a part of the annual contribution from the chapter to the joint committee of women's clubs.

A great deal of interest was taken in the reports of the delegates from the chapter to the fifteenth annual continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution held in Washington, D. C., in April. Mrs. Dexter J. Thayer gave a bright account of the proceedings of Monday and Saturday. Mrs. James B. Oliver completed the report for Tuesday, when the cornerstone of the memorial continental hall was laid. The sessions and work of Thursday were presented by Mrs. William D. Hamilton, together with the election on Friday.

An invitation was received from the Daughters of the American Revolution of Missouri and the other states within the Louisiana Purchase, asking the Pittsburgh Daughters to assist in the observance of Flag day in the Missouri building at the exposition in St. Louis and also in the celebration of October 11, the day designated as the Daughters of the American Revolution. The chapter was also requested to appoint a committee to attend the celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Fort Necessity, which will be observed July 4, 1904.

Announcement was made that Mrs. Elizabeth C. Reeder, the state regent, has appointed the Julia K. Hogg prize testimonial committee, including Miss Martha Mifflin of Columbia, chairman, in place of Mrs. James R. Mellon, who resigned; Mrs. Daniel H. Hastings, Philadelphia; Miss Emma L. Crowell, Philadelphia; Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon and Miss Sara H. Killikelly, Pittsburgh; Mrs. J. E. J. Smith and Miss Josephine Lewis, Philadelphia; Mrs. Jared H. Wickersham, Lancaster; Mrs. J. T. Rothrock, West Chester; Miss Louise H. Haynes, Philadelphia; Mrs. William Emory, Williamsport; Mrs. L. H. Boyd Cummings, Hollidaysburg, and Mrs. Joseph C. Boyd, Danville. Miss Elizabeth C. Miles of Ursinus college, Collegeville, Pa., received the 350 prize.

A committee was appointed yesterday to consider the advisability of purchasing the site of Fort Necessity or erecting a monument there. The committee includes Mrs. Sullivan Johnson, chairman; Mrs. Mansfield A. Ross, Miss Kate C. MacKnight, Mrs. Julia M. Harding, Mrs. O. D. Thompson and Mrs. Robert Carson, all of this committee being also appointed to attend the anniversary celebration July 4.

The directors of the Allegheny County Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, presented their report and were instructed by the Pittsburgh chapter to take any steps necessary for the protection of the block house. It was also decided to add records and paper weights bearing pictures of the block house to the collection of souvenirs which are for sale at the historic building at the point.

Yesterday afternoon a recital by the music pupils of Miss Elizabeth Davidson, Miss Carpenter and E. N. Bilbie was given.

Considered Plans and Sites.

The public baths department of the permanent exhibition committee met yesterday morning to look over the plans suggested and sites which are under consideration for the Soho public bath and wash house. # PENNSYLVANIA LEADS IN MINING

State Heads List in Number of Workingmen and Value of Product.

ENORMOUS OUTPUT OF COAL

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 16, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.

Pennsylvania's pre-eminence as a mining state is demonstrated by a bulletin just issued by the census bureau on mines and quarries. This bulletin presents the statistics for all mines and quarries, and petroleum and natural gas wells that were in operation during any portion of the year ending December 31, 1902. Pennsylvania was the leading mining state, both in the number of wage earners employed and in the value of products. Its high rank was due largely to the production of anthracite and bituminous coal, the wage earners reported for the coal mines forming 54.7 per cent of the 190,935 reported for all mines in the state, and the product of such mines 76.9 per cent of the total product.

Its high rank in the number of mines was due to the inclusion of the petroleum and natural gas wells, of which there were 43,832, which formed 94.2 per cent of the 46,572 mines returned for all minerals. The total wages paid in the mines of Pennsylvania during 1902 amounted to $114,122,437, and the value of the product was $236,871,417. Allowance must be made in these totals for the results of the anthracite coal strike which occurred during this year. In commenting upon this, the bulletin says:

"It would appear from the statistics of anthracite coal that the industry had fallen off in its operations between 1896 and 1902, but it should be borne in mind that during the latter year the great strike stopped production from May 12 to October 22. That the operations would have shown under normal conditions an increase of 50 per cent over the figures reported above is a safe assumption."

Ohio held second position in value of products, the total for the state being $87,186,922, of which amount the products of coal mines formed $26,953,789, or 47 per cent. It ranked third in the number of wage earners, the coal mining giving employment to 25,963 or 69.9 per cent of the 37,173 wages earners reported for the state.

West Virginia ranked fourth in value of products and fifth in the number of wage earners. The coal mines of the state gave employment to 23,914, or 70.7 per cent of the wage earners, and their products formed $24,748,658, or 51.1 per cent of the total value of all products.

There were in operation 138,671 oil wells, at which 17,552 wage earners were employed, to whom was paid wages aggregating $13,242,961. The production was 80,243,302 barrels, valued at $71,397,789. The gas wells flowing during that year numbered 15,896, and the value of their product was $50,867,893.

A summary of the operations for 1902 shows that in that year there were 151,516 mines, quarries and wells being worked in which 581,728 wage earners were employed. The amount paid out in wages amounted to $369,059,960, and the value of the products was $796,826,417.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—A suit against the estate of W. Scott Stratton, the Colorado multi-millionaire, was brought in the United States circuit court of appeals from the United States court at Denver today. The case is one in which Stratton's Independence Limited Company seeks to recover $6,000,000 from the Stratton estate. The company alleges that it paid Stratton $10,000,000 for a mine which is believed to be worth only $4,000,000. The decision at Denver was in favor of the estate.

HOW TWO BEAUTIFUL WOMEN ESCAPED DREAD CATARRH BY USE OF PE-RU-NA.

Catarrh Robs Women of Health and Beauty. Pe-ru-na Makes Women Healthy and Beautiful.

Miss Ellen Crawley, 241 S. Madison Avenue, La Grange, Ill., writes:

"For years I have been a sufferer with catarrh of the throat and larynx. I got hoarse on the slightest provocation, and my voice became weak and tired very easily. I could not talk for any length of time, and it was very annoying. I was very much discouraged, as nothing seemed to help me until a friend persuaded me to give Peruna a trial. I did not have much confidence in it, as everything else had failed me, but tried it just to please my friend. My delight, therefore, may be imagined when I began to improve at once, and I have kept on improving until my voice is strong, and I am never hoarse now. Peruna has done a great deal for me."—Miss Ellen Crawley.

"I have used Peruna now for four years, each spring and fall, and it keeps me perfectly well and strong. I am able to continue working and do not have to take a three months' rest, as I used to do every year. This is a great comfort to me, as I was not able to afford such a long rest. I find that it is a great preventive for colds and coughs and soon rids the system of all disease and is an admirable medicine. I can honestly indorse it."—Miss Lydia Herziger.

Thousands of Women Cured by Pe-ru-na of Annoying Catarrh.

Dr. Hartman has probably done more than any other physician toward popularizing a means of escape from the facial deformities, such as watery eyes, twisted nose, offensive breath, dry cracked lips, due to the ravaging effects of catarrh.

He has made chronic catarrh a lifelong study. His remedy, popularly known as Peruna, is the most famous remedy for catarrh in existence.

Probably there is not a man or woman, boy or girl, within the bounds of the United States that has not heard of Peruna. By far the largest majority have used Peruna.

The multitude of people that have been cured of chronic catarrh by using Peruna can never be known.

Many a girl has regained her faded beauty, many a matron has lengthened the days of her comely appearance by using Peruna.

Peruna produces clean mucous membranes, the basis of facial symmetry and a perfect complexion.

The women have not been slow to discover that a course of Peruna will do more toward restoring youthful beauty than all the devices known to science.

While it is true that Peruna cures catarrh wherever located, yet it is advisable for everyone to use Peruna as a preventive and not wait until catarrh has fastened itself in some part of the system.

Peruna acts quickly and beneficially on the inflammed mucous membranes lining the different organs of the body. Thus it will cure catarrh wherever located.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

at 10 o'clock a. m. at the Court House, City of Pittsburgh.

HOUSE IS BLOWN UP: TWO FATALLY INJURED

Woman and Babe Will Die from Using Powder to Remedy Clogged Flue.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

FUNKSBUTAWNEY, PA., June 3.—As a result of an explosion of powder at Florence mine today, two persons were fatally injured and two others are lying at their homes severely burned.

FATALLY INJURED.

MRS. JOHN BOLOGNE, fearfully burned about face and arms, and suffering from contusions and shocks.

MRS. BOLOGNE'S BABY, 18 months old; burned and bruised.

The explosion occurred at Mrs. Bologne's home. The husband, a mine jobber, was away. A flue had become clogged and Mrs. Bologne thought she could burn the obstruction out by using mine powder. When the powder ignited there was a sudden flash and a shower of sparks. One of these sparks fell into the can of powder which was standing near by. Instantly there was a terrific explosion which wrecked the house and hurled the woman through a side door to the ground, several feet below. A cradle, with the baby in it, was thrown against the wall of the house, and the child's clothing was set on fire.

Two women from neighboring houses rushed into the house and caught up the baby and tried to extinguish its burning clothing. Just as they were emerging from the house another can of powder was ignited and there was a second explosion. Both women were knocked to the ground and seriously, but not fatally, burned. Mrs. Bologne was picked up unconscious and with her baby was taken to the Funksutawney hospital, where the physicians say both will die.

MURDERING OF JONES CONFESSED BY LOVING

Declares He Did the Killing, So That He Might Wed Wife of Victim.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WAYNESBURG, PA., June 3.—Lellwood Loving, who was found guilty in the second degree for the murder of Alexander Jones, at Rices Landing and was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment, made a confession of the crime to Sheriff John Kobert and Deputy Oliver Moore, while he was being taken to the penitentiary, yesterday. Loving says he put Jones out of the way so that he might marry Jones' wife. He followed his victim when the latter started hunting on the 30th of last October, and says he intended to kill him where Jones had planned to dig out some groundhogs on the Oliver Price farm. Two men passing along a public road near by caused him to defer the crime. While returning home, he says he made several pretexts to get Jones to step in front of him so that he might shoot him, but the latter, he thought, was suspicious. Finally he pretended he saw a rabbit and asked Jones to step down the hill below him to see if he could see it. Loving quickly placed the muzzle of his gun close to Jones' head and fired. He denied that he also stuck a pick into the victim's head to make sure of the work, as the commonwealth alleged, or that he and other persons accused changed Jones' clothing.

During the trial the commonwealth was compelled to rely entirely upon circumstantial evidence and while 11 jurors favored a first degree verdict one juror held out 36 hours and thereby secured a second degree verdict, he believing Loving was innocent of the crime. Jones' wife was also convicted in the second degree and was taken to the penitentiary yesterday to serve two years.

W. C. T. U. OUTWITTED.

Information Against Connellsville Merchants Quashed Owing to Previous Fines.

UNIONTOWN, PA., June 3.—(Special.)—The cases brought by the Women's Christian Temperance union against nine Connellsville merchants, who were charged with violations of the Sunday closing law, were quashed in Justice Dawson's court today, similar informations having been made before Justice Morgan of New Haven. The defendants could be tried only on one information. They were warned by the Women's Christian Temperance union they would be arrested and to prevent being brought to Uniontown for a hearing, with probably large costs, they arranged to have one of their number make the information. This was done and each merchant paid $4.

The Women's Christian Temperance union women say they will make information again if the stores are opened next Sunday and they hope to get ahead of the merchants next time. The merchants say they will be open as usual next Sunday.

SPIRITUAL GOUT HELD AS RELIGIOUS AILMENT

Mrs. F. V. Stebbins of Boston Diagnoses Malady at Sabbath School Association Session.

"Spiritual Gout," was a disease that Mrs. Flora V. Stebbins of Boston diagnosed before the afternoon session of the Allegheny Sabbath School association in the Smithfield Street Methodist Episcopal church yesterday. Mrs. Stebbins referred to this disease during her discourse on "Walkers, Talkers and Winners," and held it to be an absorption of too much religion without giving any out. She held it as being unwholesome to retain all the food and drink of a good sermon without sharing it with those not fortunate enough to hear it.

The last day's session opened yesterday morning with Samuel Young presiding. Devotional services were led by the Rev. Dr. W. B. Stutz and addresses were delivered by Miss Nannie L. Frayser, primary superintendent of the Kentucky Sabbath School association, and Hugh Cork, secretary of the Pennsylvania State Sabath School association.

Chairman W. C. Lilley of the nominating committee reported the following selections: President, James W. Kinnear; vice president, the Rev. Dr. John H. Prugh; secretary, H. E. Carmack; treasurer, William H. Graham; board of managers, terms expiring 1907, A. P. Burchfield, W. S. Power, A. A. Horne, R. E. Stewart, the Rev. Dr. John Fox and H. E. Carmack. All were elected unanimously.

W. C Lilley presided at the afternoon session and devotional service was in charge of the Rev. Dr. Warren G. Partridge. Miss Frayser also spoke and gave interesting examples of some of the biblical stories she told to children. Five conferences were held at the conclusion of the afternoon session by the departments of the association.

The Rev. Dr. Prugh presided during the evening and the Rev. Dr. R. M. Russell led in prayer. Addresses were delivered by Hugh Cork on "Our Greater Needs, and by the Rev. J. R. Harriss, D. D., on "Temperance."

OAKLAND CHORAL CLUB HEARD IN "ELIJAH"

Splendid Rendition of Mendelssohn's Oratorio Given—Conductor's Ability Praised.

The rendition of Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Elijah," by the Oakland Choral club, William J. Jones, conductor, at the Oakland Welsh Presbyterian church, last night, was one of the notable musical events of the year. Better choral work has not been heard in Pittsburgh in a long time, if indeed, ever. Conductor Jones had his singers under perfect control and the manner in which they responded to his baton was superb. The club numbers nearly 90 voices. The soloists last night were Miss Anne Griffiths, soprano; Mrs. William J. Jones, alto; Dan T. Beddoe, tenor, and J. R. Roberts, baritone. J. H. Jones, the accompanist, last night had the assistance of an orchestra of 15 players, most of them members of the Pittsburgh orchestra.

The audience was a large one, filling the church to overflowing, and appreciative to a marked degree. The soloists were called on to bow their acknowledgements to nearly every number and the plaudits showered on the chorus and the able conductor were just as generous.

That Conductor Jones' work is appreciated was shown during the intermission between the first and second parts, when President Robert H. Davies took the rostrum and on behalf of the club and several of Mr. Jones' friends presented him with a handsome solid mahogany conductor's stand and a gold-mounted ivory baton.

In doing this President Davies referred to the fact that the club in closing the fifth year of its existence closed its most successful year, and that the proud position it now occupies was attained largely through the efforts of Mr. Jones. He expressed the hope that in the not far distant future the club, under Mr. Jones and his new baton, might participate in the national eisteddfod of Wales, an expression that was wildly applauded. It is understood that a realization of this hope is more than possible, for it is said that several Cambro-Americans, who are patriotic Pittsburghers, are willing to finance the proposition.

"Elijah" will be repeated this evening and another large house is assured.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The Champions made their first appearance this season in the east, and were defeated in a 12-inning game by the Brooklyns at Washington park today, 5 to 4. No one was more surprised at the result than the home team, who have been losing with clock-like precision for the last few weeks, and bid fair to regain their old time form today. The locals played a miserable fielding game, six errors being charged against them, while Miller's support was errorless, notwithstanding Shipley, Dahlen and Casey were responsible. The game up to the eighth, when the locals tied the score, was dull and uninteresting either as a batting or fielding exhibition save for Sebring's catch of a liner over the fence in the sixth innings, which, had he missed it, would have obviated the necessity of playing extra innings, as the Brooklyns had men on the corners.

Roscoe Miller pitched good and bad ball, and in the early stages of the game gave evidence of having the goods with him at last, but toward the end he weakened badly, Brooklyn slamming his delivery quite freely. Eddie Poole had a shade the better of Roscoe and fanned Leach and Beaumont, the first two Pirates to face him, in the first round. He kept the hits scattered and seemed to be the master of the situation when the bags were populous.

Beaumont reached second in the third inning on a gift and Clarke's sacrifice and scored the first run on Wagner's single. Another was tallied in the fifth. Leach hit to Jordan. Beaumont came to center and reached second. Leach scoring on Dobbs' fumble of the hit. Miller opened the seventh with a smash too hot for McCormick to handle and reached first safely. Two men were down when Poole was hit by Sheckard. Jordan and Jacklitsch. Clarke's single to center scored Miller, and Fred romped to third on Dobbs' fumble of the hit. Wagner's drive to center sent Poole home and Brooklyn had men on bases in the three innings after this, but the necessary hit was not there.

Brooklyn's first tally, like the Pirates', came in the third inning. Miller hit Casey, who slipped and the batter reached first safely. After Poole had sacrificed and Sheckard had received a pass Lumley singled to center, scoring Casey. Sebring's single and two gifts in the sixth inning netted the Harlonites two more runs. A brace of doubles in succession by Babb and McCormick in the eighth inning gave Brooklyn one run, tying the score. After this inning the locals went out in succession until the twelfth inning, when Brooklyn scored the winning run on Sheckard's single, his steal, Lumley's sacrifice and Jordan's single, which sent Sheckard across with the winning run.

The Pirates and Brooklyn will play at Washington park Sunday. This was given out officially today. The score:

Five Western Horses Will Take Part In National Handicap.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Twenty-one horses are listed to start in the Harlem national handicap which will be decided over the track tomorrow. Among the candidates for the $15,000 prize are some of the best handicap horses raced in the west. Wilful will carry top weight, 111 pounds, next comes Injunction with 109. Judge Himes and Flying Shiff are given 107 pounds each, the remainder of the field range from 105 pounds to 90 pounds. Felipe Lugo, "Lucky" Baldwin's candidate for the American Derby, gets with the bottom weight, but it is believed by many shrewd horsemen may carry off the rich purse. Colonial Girl and McGee have been installed equal favorites for the race, both being listed in the overnight betting at 4 to 1. Gregor K. is the next one that is favored for first honors. Wilful, Fio Rob, Injunction and Flying Shiff are believed by many to have an excellent chance to win, and have been backed accordingly.

The race, which is at 1 3-16 miles, will be run over a fairly fast track according to the indications tonight.

TO EXEMPT PROPERTY OF NON-BELLIGERENTS

Object of Peace Conference Memorial Which Will Go to Congress.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., June 3.—The following resolutions were adopted today by the conference on international arbitration:

"Resolved, That this conference indorses the sentiments expressed by President McKinley in his annual message of 1898, and reiterated by President Roosevelt in his annual message of 1903, in favor of the exemption of unoffending private property at sea from capture during war, as such a rule would tend to minimize and alleviate the disastrous consequences of war.

"Resolved, That the president of this conference appoint a committee of three to prepare and present to the president of the United States, the secretary of state and both houses of congress, a memorial urging that an international congress be called to consider this question with a view of incorporating into the permanent law of civilized nations the principle of exemption of all unoffending private property at sea, not contraband of war, from capture or destruction by belligerent powers; and further, that this congress be requested to consider the adoption of a code of rules for the general conduct of warfare upon the sea."

A platform of principles was also adopted, which records the fact that 11 nations, five of them ranking among the great powers, have appeared before the court at The Hague and submitted their controversies to its adjudication; confidently relies upon the irresistible power of public opinion to give effectual sanction to the judgments of the arbitral tribunal and to extend the scope of its jurisdiction; rejoices that the increasing development of commercial communication between countries tends to the advancement of universal peace; urges all the people to give due influence to the adjudication by The Hague tribunal of all controversies hereafter arising substantially as in disputes between parties in civil cases, and considers it of great importance that the arbitration treaties signed by the representatives of all the states of the western hemisphere at the international American conference held in Mexico City in 1901 and 1902 should be ratified at the earliest practicable day; favors the coming together of representatives of all nations disposed to join in the movement.

The leading speaker at the morning session was Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court, who said that the institution of The Hague tribunal marked the beginning of the end of war. He intimated that he thought it hardly consistent to advocate a larger naval armament as some speakers had done, and at the same time urge the promotion of international peace.

Congressman Bartholdt of Missouri, who organized in the congress last winter a group of the interparliamentary union, addressed the conference on that subject.

Dr. Edward Everett Hale addressed the conference briefly in eulogy of Frederick W. Holls and William E. Dodge, prominent figures in the movement for international arbitration, who died last year. Other speakers were Gen. O. O. Howard, Gen. J. H. Russell, Signor Agnoli, Capt. Richmond P. Hobson, Senor Gambra, the Mexican delegate to The Hague, and Robert Lansing of Washington, associate counsel in the Alaska boundary case.

At the Nixon theater on Sunday next at 3 o'clock Edward A. Kimball of Chicago will lecture on Christian Science.

Mr. Kimball has never been heard in this city and the following extract from his introduction to a Boston audience by Prof. H. S. Hering is of interest:

"The gentleman who will address you tonight is one of the eminently qualified to speak with conviction and authority. After 17 years ago he was a very successful business man, but owing to ill-health, being in fact on the very brink of the grave, he was obliged to retire. At this point Christian Science healed him, and he has since devoted his entire time to Christian Science work. He is a personal student of Mrs. Eddy, has occupied successfully the various positions of practitioner, teacher, reader, lecturer, and for the last five years has been the teacher of Christian Science in the Massachusetts Metaphysical college. You can, therefore, rest assured that what he tells you tonight will be spoken with authority and is the result of wide experience. So I speak for him your calm, impartial and intelligent attention.

"It is with much pleasure that I introduce to you the lecturer of the evening, Mr. Edward A. Kimball, C. S. D., of Chicago."

Next Sunday's lecture will be given under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Pittsburgh, and will be free to the public.

A Nervous Woman

Will often feel compelled to stop the clock whose ticking seems unbearable to her. In such a nervous condition the woman needs a building up of the entire system. It is useless to attempt the cure of the nerves while the cause of the nervousness remains uncured. A very common cause of nervousness in women is a diseased condition of the delicate womanly organism.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures womanly diseases and the nervousness which they cause. It changes irregularity to regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It is a perfect tonic and nervine, tranquilizing the nerves, promoting the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep.

"I was so nervous I had to have some one by my side all the time, even in the daytime, and I could hardly eat anything," writes Mrs. Selma Erickson, of 496 Rice Street, St. Paul, Minn. "I quit all the doctors and began taking your medicines; I gained right along. I am as well and feel as good as ever."

$500 REWARD! FOR WOMEN WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

STOCKS DULL BUT FIRM, CLOSING AT THE BEST

U. S. Steel Issues Led the Rally in the Industrials and Reading in the Railroads—Big Bank Statement Expected.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday was dull but firm, and prices closed at the best. The volume of transactions, however, was the smallest for any day this week, and the dealings were still largely professional. The feature of the market was the strength and comparative activity of the U. S. Steel issues. The preferred rallied to and closed at 53¾, and the sinking fund bonds, after advancing to 78, closed at 73¾. The demand for the latter was better than at any previous time since the dissolution of the bond conversion syndicate, and it required little buying to advance the price. A statement, credited to semi-official sources, denied the report that the corporation had cut the price of any of its products, and the reported placing of orders for 3,-000 steel cars by the Harriman roads had a good effect upon general sentiment. The most important buying of the day can be attributed to the condition of the iron and steel industry as a whole. The market for pig iron is flat, and there will be a further curtailment of production this month. At the same time the U. S. Steel Corporation is consuming the output of its own furnaces and is not piling up any surplus stock. So long as this policy is adhered to, the independent furnaces feel that a curtailment of outside production will maintain a healthy condition of the trade and furnish a good foundation for a broad market when the turn comes. In the west the wire trade is reported poor, but from the same section come reports of an improvement in structural steel, and it was in this latter department of the market that the dullness has been greatest. The daily needs of the mills are apparently sufficient to keep producers moderately busy, and the most serious complaint is of the hand-to-mouth character of the business. The weakness in Amalgamated Copper on Thursday was probably in the nature of discounting the further reduction in the metal ordered yesterday, for when the latter announcement was formally made the stock held steady, and ¾ per cent covered the extreme fluctuations for the day. American Smelting also recovered a portion of its early loss, advancing to 82¾, closing at 82 bid. Sugar was quoted at 115, ex dividend of 1¾ per cent, but remained stationary at day at 125. American Car & Foundry sold at 16¾ and Pressed Steel Car common at 25¾.

Reading was the strongest of the railroads, and in the late dealings advanced to 44¾. It is pointed out that the controlling interest in this stock is owned by Baltimore & Ohio and Lake Shore, and that the company has neither expanded the fixed charges nor bonded to its rates; but, granting all this, dividends on the common stock are apparently still a long ways off. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific rallied only a small fraction, although both roads made favorable reports for April, Union Pacific reporting an increase in net earnings of $79,000 and Southern Pacific an increase of $143,000. A small fraction covered the range in Pennsylvania, the stock opening at 115⅞ and closing at 113⅝, the extremes for the day. The grainer roads were not affected by reports of drought in the west.

Cotton recovered a small portion of its previous decline, but did not close at the best. Wheat was strong, and late in the session advanced 2c for the old July option, which rose to and closed at 90½. The Ohio state report showed a slight improvement in conditions for the past month, but from Kansas there were reports of too much moisture for winter wheat, and from the northwest the spring wheat was said to be making slow progress on account of cold, damp weather.

Another big bank statement is looked for today. The preliminary estimates indicate a gain in cash of more than $8,-000,000. A similar estimate last week proved to be very much under the mark, the gain in cash exceeding $16,000,000. No one ventured a guess as to the change in the loan item, but if it should amount to half as much as last week there should be a further large addition to the surplus reserves. Gold exports for the week have been smaller than for any week since the outward movement began in April. Call loan rates remained easy at an average of 1¼ per cent, the final loan being at 1¼ per cent.

On the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday the trading consisted of 507 shares stock, $20,000 bonds and $243.25 dividend scrip. The only change of note was a rally of ½ per cent in U. S. Steel preferred, but only 66 shares changed hands all day. There was also a dearth of business at the regular bank call.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The sale of $20,000 River Coal 6s at 111 was the only transaction of note on the local board yesterday. Holmes & Sons bought and Hoag and Campbell Bros. sold. Holmes & Sons also continued to buy Pittsburgh Coal dividend scrip.

The reports made by the state banks and trust companies were more favorable than expected, but they failed to stimulate any trading in this group of stocks. The figures contained in the report of the Union Trust Company attracted general attention, the footings being the largest ever reported by a local banking institution.

The report of the Colonial Trust Company was regarded as very satisfactory, both as to earnings and the maintenance of deposits. The latter foot up $10,308,863, as compared with $9,777,000 a year ago, when the stock of the company was selling at double its present market value. Some traders express the opinion that it is quoted as much too low now as it was too high a year ago.

There were no dealings in the Westinghouse stocks all day. Electric was nominally unchanged at 77 bid, 77¾ asked, and Airbrake was 128 bid. Switch & Signal was not quoted.

There were no sales of National Fire Proofing common or preferred, or any of the natural gas stocks yesterday, and prices remained nominally unchanged.

Farmers Deposit National bank was offered at 1,300 and closed without bid. Iron City Trust was offered at 120 and also closed without bid.

Duquesne Brewing was 100 bid, 130 asked, the first public quotation for weeks. Pittsburgh Brewing common sold unchanged at 24½, and the preferred was quoted at 44¾ bid.

A. E. Masten & Co. have issued a very instructive little booklet on the method of investment and speculation in pig iron warrants, which have been listed on the Pittsburgh and other exchanges. The book also contains a carefully prepared article describing the different grades of iron and their principal uses, together with tables showing the production and prices for a series of years.

One New York brokerage house yesterday sold 4,000 shares United States Steel preferred and bought about $200,000 of the sinking fund bonds, which led to the inference that some investor was switching over from the stock to the bonds.

The gross earnings of Chicago & Alton for April decreased $18,830 and the net decreased $43,644. The surplus of Big Four for April decreased $5,200.

Between 11 and 12 o'clock yesterday the sales on the New York stock exchange were only 12,600 shares.

Bradstreets reported wheat and flour exports for the week at 1,937,000 bushels. This is the largest total for any week since the middle of March, and is two and a half times the total for the second week in May.

A New York stock exchange membership sold at $88,000, a decline of $2,500 from the latest previous transfer, which was at $90,500.

While in Pittsburgh one day this week a Philadelphia manufacturer asked a prominent steel man, who is connected with the Carnegie Company, what he thought of the outlook for business. His answer was, that while the immediate future was not very promising, he looked forward to a great boom in the industry in 1905 and 1906, when the demand for steel will be so great that it would require a second corporation as large as the United States Steel Corporation to fill all of the orders. Pressed for a reason for this opinion the steel maker said: "There are over 200,000 miles of railroads in the United States, all built with wooden ties. These will have to be, a theory that elasticity was necessary for a track and that the wooden ties supplied this want. But the modern railroad locomotives have become so heavy and cars have been built so large that when loaded they carry 100,000 pounds, that it is essential to have solid and more substantial roads. The weight is so great that steel ties must supersede wooden ones, just as 100-pound steel rails have displaced the old style light iron rails. Mark my word for it, this change on our railroads is bound to come, and when 250,000 miles of steel railroad ties are required there will be a tremendous demand upon the steel mills of the United States. That is one reason why I look forward to unprecedented activity in the steel business of this country."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Among sales reported yesterday which was not passed on the exchanges, was 1,000 shares Luster Mining at 13, Whitney, Stephenson & Co. to G. W. MacMullen & Co.

The voting trust of Wisconsin Central give notice that on and after July, 1904, common and preferred stock trust certificates of Wisconsin Central will be delivered upon surrender of the voting trust certificates duly indorsed in blank by the registered holders.

Reading and Ontario & Western continued to show strength on moderate transactions, the former on the annual report shortly to be published, which will show over 7 per cent earned, with equal prospects for the ensuing year, and in the latter because this property will undoubtedly see the voting trust dissolved, which will mean that a small dividend will be declared.

The estimates of the week's currency movement indicates a continuance of the flow to New York, although the gain seems to be less than that of last week, and New York exchange at Chicago is rising slightly. With the gain on sub-treasury operations there is a promise of an increase in cash of over $7,-000,000 to be shown by today's bank statement.

The average capitalizations per mile of all the street railroads in the United States for the year ending June 30, 1902, was $128,881. The average capitalization per mile in the state of Massachusetts was $48,021. The average capitalization per mile in the state of New York was $230,947. In other words, the street railroad capitalization in the state of New York is $110,066 per mile greater than that of the United States, and is $100,020 per mile greater than that of the state of Massachusetts, which has had the benefit of excellent laws and a railroad commission possessing ample powers and a will to exercise them for the benefit of the public.

The statement of the June 1 money in the country was of interest as showing a decrease of but $23,366,216 for May, in spite of the heavy loss to Europe. This decrease is more than accounted for by the decline in gold coin and certificates. But compared with a year ago the amount of money in circulation has increased $127,105,902, of which $90,-201,870 was in gold coin and certificates. The indifference to the present outflow of gold, unprecedented as it is in volume for the period covered, is thus understood. Permission was given yesterday for the telegraphic transfer to New York of $1,750,000 in Japanese yen to arrive in San Francisco next week.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

Peter Sherlock, known as the hermit prospector, has left Wardner, Idaho, on his annual pilgrimage to his placer ground on the head waters of the St. Joe river. For the past 18 years, sometimes alone, at others accompanied by one or two men, he has annually gone to this wild district to prospect during the short season. He has acquired 250 acres on Sherlock creek, not far from the St. Joe basin. He is unable to reach the district until the latter part of May or the first of June, and on account of the early fall of snow he is forced to leave for the outside during September. To reach there from Wallace it is necessary to travel over 100 miles. The railroad is left at Iron Mountain, Mont., and from there the trail up Cedar creek is taken, and then the main range of the Bitter Roots crossed, which even during the summer months are banked high with snow. Last year Sherlock completed the building of a 1,200 foot flume.

D. L. Huntington, manager of the Washington Water Power Company, was in the Coeur d'Alene country last week, with a view to selecting a route for the high power line which is to be extended to the Morning mine. The company has already taken a contract to furnish electrical power for this mine, and surveyors will be sent into the field to make the definite location of the line about July 1. The line will be completed about September 1. It will branch from the present line in Canyon creek and run up over the mountain, a distance of four miles.

Work has been resumed at the Knob Hill mine after several weeks' cessation. From reports received at Republic, Wash., from the boundary smelters, across the international line, they will shortly have a demand for from 300 to 400 tons of ore daily from Republic camp. The Knob Hill managers are starting preparations to make daily shipments. During the past week the Knob Hill shipped three carloads of ore to the Granby smelter.

The new management of the Golden smelter is now ready to contract for ore supplies. It is stated that the furnaces will be blown in July 15. Many improvements are being made.

The Oklahoma Gold Mining Company is capitalized at $100,000, and is composed chiefly of Oklahoma investors. The Oklahoma property is located 10 miles north of Salina, Co. Considerable development work has been done to prove the continuity of the surface veins. The shaft was driven a distance of 80 feet, with small veins of ore in sight that ran from $12 to $16 in gold and a small per cent of copper.

What may reasonably be called a sensational strike of exceptionally high grade dry silver ore was made near the upper waters of Woodbery creek, which falls into Kootenay lake, between Kaslo and Ainsworth, B. C. The property is the Pontiac group. The ore is admitted to be the richest ever seen in Kaslo, when the size and uniformity of the sample is considered. The pay shoot is from 24 to 28 inches in width, lying on the hanging wall side of the vein. Taking the sample generally, it may be said that gray copper, native silver and ruby silver constitute five-sixths of the bulk and quartz forms one-sixth. Three assays taken from the mass show 2585, 682 and 1,415 ounces of silver respectively to the ton, $6 per ton in gold, and only one sample showed lead to the extent of 1 per cent.

Locally tin remained quiet and unchanged, closing at 27 12½@27 37½. Copper declined 7s 6d in the London market, closing at £56 5s for both spot and futures. Locally copper was quiet and a shade lower, with lake quoted at $12 87½, electrolytic at $12 62½@12 87½, and casting, No. 2, $12 37½@12 50. Spelter advanced 2s 6d in London to £22 2s 6d, but remained unchanged locally at $4 87½@5 00. # FOUR EAST END HOUSES BOUGHT

Joseph Stern of Parkersburg Buys New Residences for $34,800.

SWISSVALE'S NEW BUILDING

Through the agency of W. M. Cooper four new houses belonging to George N. Powell have been sold to Joseph Stern of Parkersburg, W. Va., for $34,800. Three of the houses, which brought $5,100 each, are in Stratton lane, near Howe street. Twentieth ward. They are 10-room modern pressed brick houses finished in hardwood and stand on lots 30x120, 30x107 and 35x130 feet. The other residence, which was sold for $16,500, stands on 31x140 feet in Farragut street, near Nineteenth street, Nineteenth ward. This house is unoccupied, having been finished only recently. The Stratton lane houses are all rented for $50 a month. The deal is noteworthy, as it is the first time for months that an out-of-town investor has figured as the buyer of high-class residence properties, unless purchased for a home, and as it shows that really desirable residence localities are in as good demand as ever.

George Hubbard, the builder, has purchased from F. Rohrman 66x132 feet on the north side of Penn avenue, between Coal street and Swissvale avenue, Wilkinsburg, for $25,000. Mr. Hubbard also bought from the same owner 35x66 feet in North avenue, Wilkinsburg, for $2,600.

Morris Kaufmann of Kaufmann Bros. proves to have been the buyer of the Rosenthal property on the north side of Fifth avenue, Eleventh ward, which was sold a few weeks ago for $37,000, through the office of M. J. Ehrenfeld. The lot is 40x74 feet, extending through to Our alley, and is improved with a three-story brick dwelling which is rented for about $2,600 a year. At the price paid the property figures at $925 a front foot. Less than a year ago Mr. Rosenthal bought from William M. Laird for $32,689, so that this deal nets him $4,320. The profits made in recent Fifth avenue deals and the persistence of well-known investors in seeking bargains beyond that bump indicate that there is a strong belief that the bump will come down in the near future.

Municipal Building for Swissvale.

The council of Swissvale borough has at last voted to purchase a site 115x126 feet in Rosslyn street, near Braddock avenue, for $7,200, the property which is owned by Mrs. Agnes and Arthur P. Naylor and is only about 50 feet from Rosslyn street, where it was at first reported a site would be bought. The high price asked for a corner lot at that point is all, it is said, that prevented a purchase there. The site chosen is known as lots No. 13 and 14 in the Milligan Manor allotment, and is nearly opposite the $55,000 apartment house of C. C. Hamilton. The public school building is less than a square distant. The municipal building, for which it will cost $25,000, and a bond issue has already been arranged for to pay for it and the site. The locating of the municipal building at this point will end a lively scramble among property owners and means the shifting of the business center eventually from Chamberlain street to the Pennsylvania station, to Rosslyn and Noble streets. Several business firms have already located in Rosslyn street, and the proposed tunnel of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at Braddock avenue will drive a lot of new business men to the new center. Two years ago frontage in Rosslyn street was worth from $50 to $60 a foot; but now there is none on the market for less than $100 to $125 a foot.

The announcement that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will start work at once on its $1,000,000 freight terminal at the Point is believed to be the forerunner of a number of real estate deals that will mean much to the business part of Pittsburgh. While the Point property is bought more than two years ago, when the actual work of making the tremendous improvements contemplated is started it is likely to stir up new enthusiasm among large buyers, for the change cannot fail to add largely to the values of many properties in the lower part of the city.

Another deal totaling over $300,000 for business property in the Third avenue is scheduled for early closing, and rumors are current of important projects in that district that may be consummated soon. Another deal to be reported in the vicinity of the West Penn station, which is valued at $140,000, is also reported to be on the point of closing, and it will mark the beginning of a boom there if it goes through. In the East End the preliminary papers have been signed in the sale of a railroad siding valued at $25,000, and also for a well-known residence property worth about $50,000, both of which deals are nearly ready for publication.

At the office of the Real Estate Trust Company there is a steady inquiry for plans and booklets of the Village and Orchard allotments at Economy, and the salesmen on the grounds are kept busy with visitors who are there to buy thoughtfully. Yesterday these sales of properties in the old village of Economy were made: To Mrs. Margaret J. McCrory of Allegheny, lots Nos. 1057 and 1058 at Merchant and Twelfth streets, for $5,100; to Mrs. Mary Bauder, lot No. 10 in Thirteenth street, for $2,700; to Alexander Rose, the contractor, a frame house at Church and Twelfth streets, for $4,250; to Mrs. Catherine Moser, lot No. 40 in Twelfth street, for $2,400; to Mrs. Goshorn, lot No. 2 in Fourteenth street, for $1,100.

C. E. Wilson, treasurer of the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, has bought from David S. McCann 218x200 feet in Maple avenue, Edgeworth, for $16,617. The property faces 200 feet in Beach street and will be improved with two brick houses, to cost $9,000 each.

S. R. Dibert has purchased from Mary A. Harding 125x102 feet on the west side of Hedge avenue, Twenty-first ward, for $10,550.

Pride street: M. J. Ehrenfeld sold to B. Rosenthal a brick house on lot 17x82 feet in Pride street, 50 feet from Fifth avenue, for $5,000. Mr. Rosenthal will build a business block in anticipation of the spreading out of the Fifth avenue business district.

Belmar street: Melissa Hepburn sold to James Allen Improved lot 30x95 feet on the north side of Race street, near Sherrett street, Twenty-first ward, for $5,600.

Kincaid street: Dennis Hoefe sold to Wilhelm Boehm an improved lot 25x110 feet on the north side of Kincaid street, Nineteenth ward, for $3,750.

Flowers avenue: George Hubbard sold to G. G. Frazier an improved lot 33x129 feet in Thomas avenue, Twenty-third ward, for $6,000.

Lookout avenue: John Harper sold to Sarah E. McAuley an improved lot 20x90 feet on the north side of Lookout avenue, near Wallace street, Fourteenth ward, for $2,900.

Clark street: Morris Meyers sold to R. Kementetzky an improved lot 20x48 feet in Clark street, Eighth ward, for $4,800.

Howley avenue: Theresa Meinert sold to William Grupp an improved lot 100x100 feet in Howley avenue, Sixteenth ward, for $1,800.

Building permits were issued yesterday to C. N. Rayburn for three two-story nine-room brick veneer dwellings in Farragut street, Nineteenth ward, to cost $13,500; to the John Boehm Company, for a three-story brick factory at Mathilda and Luma alleys, to cost $9,500, and to Charles Reilly for a three-story addition to the factory in Moore street, Thirteenth ward, to cost $3,500.

The Drygoods Market.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The drygoods market is in the same undecisive state which has marked its condition for the last few weeks, although in certain instances sellers feel more sanguine of improvement. They look for a turn in the raw material and a consequent improvement in piece goods. Buyers are undoubtedly holding back a good many orders until they believe the time is ripe for placing them.

BUTTER MUCH WEAKER; PRODUCE VERY SCARCE

Eggs Are Holding Up Well—Tomatoes Are Wanted—Hay Still Lower.

Butter is slow, receipts being very heavy just now from the rural districts. A great deal of butter is being peddled about at present and sales of this kind have a more or less disastrous effect on the regular market. Although there is an abundance of eggs in Pittsburgh, the selected stock is commanding as high prices as ever. Cheese has eased up considerably and is selling at comparatively low prices. Nothing new has developed in the local provisions or poultry situations, demand being about the same as one week ago. There were no changes in the grocery line yesterday; new mackerel are expected the first of next week, and new lake herring, which are already on hand, are quoted lower than the old stock. General trade in this line is reported fair, demands being good on sugar, flour and cereals, especially.

Nearly everything in the produce line was very scarce yesterday. This was true particularly of cabbage, potatoes, tomatoes and bananas. Florida potatoes are now out of the market, the Southern crop having been exhausted. The New Orleans sold as high as $8 00 yesterday and were in excellent request. The Florida tomato supply is about done and good stock in this line would command as high as $4 00 if imported in a crate. The general scarcity is only local, however. Considerable stock will soon be on hand, some of which is already in transit. There was brisk trading in berries yesterday and prices were reduced slightly. Receipts were ample. About 275 boxes of California cherries arrived and the stock was wanted.

Further reductions have been made on timothy hay, the market having been unable to bear up even in the face of heavy buying by those who have been stocking up in anticipation of lighter receipts and an improved market. Oats are looking better, but no changes have been made in quotations. Shelled corn quotations are lower. Reductions have also been made on all grades of straw.

HAY, GRAIN AND FEED.

Receipts bulletined: Pennsylvania lines, 25 cars hay, 14 cars oats, 10 cars corn, 1 car straw; Erie, 2 cars hay, 12 cars oats, 1 car straw, 2 cars oats, 1 car feed; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 8 cars hay.

Dealers charge an advance of 5 cents a bushel on oats and $5 00 a ton on hay and mill feed from warehouses in less than carload lots.

WHEAT SHOOTS UP ON FLOOD DAMAGE REPORTS

Other Cereals Also Make Substantial Advance in Sympathy.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 3.—Alarm in regard to damage by floods caused a sharp upturn in wheat today, the July delivery closing at an advance of 1⅝@2c. Corn left up 1¼c. Oats are up ⅝@⅞c and provisions 7½c to 27½c.

Strength with which trading in the wheat pit commenced was almost solely due to unfavorable weather. Numerous reports of damage in Kansas and Missouri, the result of heavy rains in that section, had a bullish effect at the start. Initial sales on July were up ¼@⅜c to 1½@1¾c at 87⅛@87⅜c. Commission houses had plenty of buying orders, but offerings were light. A rumor that a large business in flour had been done yesterday at Minneapolis on orders from Japan helped to keep alive bullish sentiment during the first hour. The market soon became easier, however, on profit-taking. There was also some selling as a result of a report of a Chicago statistician showing some improvement in crop conditions. A denial of reported flour sales at Minneapolis helped to bring about the reaction. On the decline July sold off to 87⅛@87¼c. For a time traditional bearish points in the crop sentiment again became exceedingly bullish. The cause of the renewed strength was the report of a Minneapolis expert claiming likelihood of great damage by floods in the southwest. According to this authority indications are for half a crop in Texas, a small crop in Oklahoma, and a sensational decline in yield throughout the Ohio valley. The demand was extremely active last half hour, and prices advanced rapidly. The close was practically at the high point. After touching 89¾c, July closed at 89⅛c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 181,200 bushels. Exports of wheat and flour for the week, as shown by Bradstreet's, were equal to 1,137,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 508,000 bushels, compared with 321,100 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 206 cars, against 126 cars last week and 300 cars a year ago.

Heavy rains in the west and strength in wheat were the influences that created a strong tone in corn. An active demand for cash stuff, except low grades, assisted in hardening the tone, the volume of business was large but was confined mainly to local operators. The market closed at the top point. July opened ¼@⅝c higher at 50⅞@50¾c, sold between 49⅞c and 50¾@50¾c, and closed at the top. Local receipts were 365 cars, with 59 of contract grade.

Rain had a strengthening effect on the oats market, similar to that in wheat and corn. While the market was firm, trading was of small volume. After opening unchanged to ¼c higher at 39⅜@39¾c, July ranged between 39⅜c and 40¾c, and closed at 40⅜@40½c. Local receipts were 122 cars.

Provisions were firm throughout the entire session. Trading was dull early in the day, but the late outburst in wheat caused an active demand resulting in a sudden advance. The market closed almost at the top. Decreased receipts of hogs had a billish effect at the start. Trading was mainly in the September options. September pork closed with a gain of 2½@2¾c at $13 87½. September lard was up 7½@10c at $6 65. Ribs were up 12½@15c at $6 90.

MONEY MARKET IS EASY DESPITE SLOW TRADE

Liabilities of Mercantile Failures Are Small, Indicating Quiet Season.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 3.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade tomorrow will say:

Interruption of industrial progress by the holiday labor conflicts and inclement weather again produced a somewhat unsatisfactory trade situation. Yet the money market is easy and accommodation readily obtained by legitimate business channels. Liabilities of mercantile failures are comparatively small, indicating that most concerns have prepared for a quiet season of dulness and have spent a period of diminished sales and tardy payments. This conservative attitude is the fundamentally strong feature of the situation, and when business revives there will be no pressure to dispose of heavy stocks of undesirable goods. More manufacturing plants have reduced hours or wages, and several strikes have added to the number of idle workers.

No definite change is reported in the iron and steel industry, quotations being barely maintained and new contracts placed with great difficulty. Some mills have been stopped at some concerns and running time is reduced at others. The impression is gaining ground that the decline in quotations will not go much further, and there is less disposition to secure new contracts by making concessions. Small orders for structural material are being placed, and the heavy movement in pipe and plates, but the demand for rails, rolling stock and other railway equipment is distinctly unsatisfactory. In several departments of the iron trade prices have declined sufficiently to attract business from abroad, and this increase in exports is the best feature of the situation.

Little change is noted in textile manufacturing conditions, primary markets for cotton goods finding buyers proceeding with caution and spinners show increased willingness to consider orders for future deliveries. Improvement is maintained in woolen goods, the demand showing greater diversification. Wholesale clothiers exhibit more confidence by making better purchases for their needs during the balance of the season.

New England manufacturers of footwear are receiving more supplementary fall orders, and travelling salesmen report a fair volume of business in next spring's tan and russet goods, while manufacturers are extending facilities in this branch of their industry.

Commercial failures this week in the United States are 220, against 226 last week, 256 the preceding week and 182 the corresponding week last year. Canada reports 32 failures this week, against 17 last week, 12 the preceding week and 24 last year.

| Chicago | 143,971,078 | | 3.7 |
| Boston | 95,168,060 | | 22.7 |

BIG ESTATE AT STAKE IN COURT

GUSKY CREDITORS SATISFIED

An estate valued at over $100,000 is at stake, and the testamentary capacity of John Long, late of Scott township, who died at the age of 76 years, will decide it.

Proceedings were begun in orphans' court and common pleas court No. 3, and the allegations border on the sensational, setting forth that he disinherited his relatives and left his fortune to persons of no blood relation, as the result of duress and undue influence upon him by the beneficiaries, who kept him secluded from his own kin during his declining years. A codicil of the will is dated April 6, 1903, and in this he wipes out the will and makes Rebecca Blanch Thompson, the residuary legatee, his sole heir. On the same day the farm was sold and a purchase-money mortgage of $31,962.20 was assigned, it is averred, on the same day to Eugenia Thompson and her consulter, who subsequently made an assignment of the mortgage to the Mt. Washington Savings and Trust Company for a consideration much below the face of the mortgage, it is said.

The proceedings are instituted by Attorneys Alexander Gilfillan and Reed, Smith, Beal & Shaw for Findley Gilkeson of Scott township, a first cousin and the nearest relative of the deceased. John Long died on March 29, 1904, and on April 2, 1904, a paper purporting to be his will, bearing date of December 20, 1897, with a codicil of April 6, 1903, was offered and admitted to probate.

Mrs. Euphemia Thompson, who had been Long's housekeeper, and her two daughters, Rebecca B. and Mrs. Ella Rathburn, members of his household, were made the chief beneficiaries. The codicil, however, made Rebecca B., the daughter, the sole heir of the estate. Gilkeson has inaugurated a contest, and in his petition presented to orphans' court, on which citations were awarded, he denies the validity of the paper probated and asks that an issue be formulated. He also took an appeal from the course of Register Stengel in probating the will.

Strong Allegations Made.

He says that he expects to prove that the investment was not the decedent's last will; that he was 90 years old at the time of its execution and so enfeebled that he was lacking in testamentary capacity.

It was obtained, he avers, by Mrs. Thompson and her daughters by fraud, duress and undue influence; that they stood in the relation of confidential advisers and practically dictated the terms of the will. He then charges them with secluding the decedent from his friends and family and says they would rarely permit the old man to see any of them, only in their presence, and kept him from going abroad from the house.

The other proceedings are in equity and name the two Thompsons, the Mt. Washington Savings and Trust Company and Andrew G. Smith, executor of John Long, as defendants. Smith, it is averred, is a director and large stockholder in the trust company and was aware of the assignment of the mortgage.

The bill repeals the recital of the above circumstance substantially and then sets forth that on April 9, 1903, Long gave a deed for the firm of 174 acres in Scott township to A. C. Phillips for a recited consideration of $91,962.20. On the same day Phillips gave a deed for the property to Wesley I. Craig and Samuel Glenn for a recited consideration of $45,981.10. On the same day Phillips gave his purchase-money mortgage accompanied by bond for $31,962.20, and on the same day the mortgage and bond were assigned by Long to Mrs. Euphemia Thompson and Rebecca Blanche Thompson. The two women on December 16, 1903, assigned the mortgage and bond to the trust company for a consideration, it is alleged, much below the face of the mortgage.

It is then averred that at the time of the execution the decedent was so enfeebled as to be incapable of transacting business, and the charges of fraud are repeated. No consideration is asserted, received no consideration for the assignment, which was in fraud of his rights.

The trust company, it is alleged, now threatens to foreclose the mortgage against the estate of Wesley I. Craig, who has since died, for non-payment of the installment.

The bill asks a decree placing the mortgage in the hands of a trustee pending the final adjudication of the matters.

Ruling on Selling Game Fish.

Judge Macfarlane in quarter sessions court affirmed the decision of Alderman C. C. McGovern in the cases of Louis and Henry Knapp of Pittsburgh and W. J. Wyland of Allegheny. The defendants are fish dealers and were charged by Fish Warden J. N. Hague with violating the game laws. The informations were made before Alderman McGovern and the defendants were each fined $10 and took an appeal from the alderman's decision. The men were charged with displaying fish for sale during the closed season, which is between February 15 and June 15. The defendants admitted having bass, but said in defense that the fish had been purchased outside the state and that they did not think it unlawful to sell under those circumstances.

In default of the payment of the fines imposed the men will have to spend a day in jail and pay dollar each. These dealers were sued at the same time, but they paid their fines.

In the United States district court yesterday Judge Buffington made an order confirming the composition of Mrs. Julia Gusky doing business as J. M. Gusky, with her creditors. The estate will be taken out of the hands of the Mercantile Trust Company, as trustee, as soon as possible. The creditors have all agreed to accept 25 cents on the dollar, which will amount to about $120,000.

Mrs. Gusky's attorney said that he presumed the business would be resumed, although it had been closed for some months.

The bankruptcy schedules show liabilities of $230,072 and assets of $225,301, which will leave about $126,000 after the creditors have been satisfied. It is expected that most of the debts has been deposited with the court and checks will be issued, signed by Judge Buffington and Clerk Lindsay, to pay the creditors.

Edward Engel, 14 years old, of Troy Hill, Allegheny, was ordered sent to Morganza, having been convicted on a charge of horse stealing. The information was made by John Yong of Wexford Fire township, who alleged the boy stole a horse, set of harness and a cart from his stable on May 28.

GOOD COAL WATER HERE.

Indications Point to Record-Breaking Shipments This Month—A Fine Start.

The rivers are now in shape for coal shipment. The Valiant got out yesterday with a tow of 10 barges and 3 boats, the Jim Wood will go today with a tow of 17 barges and 5 boats. The Iron Age, Dave Wood and Charley Brown will arrive from below today and will be sent out as soon as the fleets can be made up. Rains yesterday and Thursday night have swelled the rivers more than had been expected. The boats down river will get back as fast as possible and from indications the coal shipments for June this year may be heavier than for many years. Packets are handling a fine tonnage in early fine and unusually large list of passengers. The Virginia got in last night from Cincinnati with one of the biggest passenger lists in her history. She will leave today for Cincinnati. The Columbia left with a good trip of passengers and freight for Morgantown. The Lorena and Greenwood had good trips in yesterday.

B. & O. Shows Increase in Coal Tonnage for Last Week of May

Records of the coal movements of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad out of the Pittsburgh district for the month of May, which have just been completed, show that the tonnage in comparison with the same period of the previous year decreased 900 cars, but for the last week of May there was an increase of 150 cars. This is considered a remarkably good showing in view of the lake trouble. The Pennsylvania railroad system for the same month reports eastbound movements through and out of Pittsburgh which compare favorably with May of 1903 and the Lake Erie, including all classes of freight, has not suffered very materially.

"In certain lines there has been slight decreases," said a coal and coke official yesterday. "I think the public has been greatly misled concerning the 'tremendous' falling off in shipments. The fault is that the average person believes that because the railroads in this district are not congested they are not doing any business. The movements are freer now than has been the case for some years and because the roads are handling the usual tonnage with far less trouble the public jumps at the conclusion that there is no freight to haul. This time last year the train crews were working 38 and 48 hours at a time. Now they average 12 hours or less and accomplish the same amount of work. Then there was congestion and a shortage of cars. Now there is no congestion to speak of and plenty of rolling stock.

"In the Connellsville district, for example, we are hauling just as much coke as we were a year ago despite reports to the contrary. We are able to make larger movements and make them quicker than a year ago. The public hasn't adjusted itself to the advance in the operation of trains.

"As to the coal shipments the larger companies are not up to their quota, but the independent concerns are doing most of the business. When coal prices were boosted there were a number of independent companies formed. They went after the business and secured contracts under the eyes of the big companies. They are now holding on to it with grim desperation while the wealthy companies are falling back on their reserve funds."

Freight traffic officials of the Pittsburgh-Chicago lines have just concluded a conference here over railway fuel rates out of the Pittsburgh district to the northwest. The meeting was held in the office of C. F. Perkins of the Pennsylvania lines and is said to have resulted in a continuance of the former rates. If the lake season does not soon open the Pittsburgh roads will have the opportunity of moving a large coal tonnage to the northwest.

Charity Rates Coming Up.

The Central Passenger association at a meeting to be held in Chicago next Wednesday will consider the question of accepting charity tickets from western lines at St. Louis gateways. On account of the exposition the Central Passenger association lines are afraid that the charity fare privilege will be overdone. Differentials will also be brought up.

Lines West After Terminal Road.

It is said that the Pennsylvania lines west are negotiating for the purchase of the Lake & River line, which is owned by the Cleveland Trust Company. The road runs from Custalogas, O., to Ashland, a distance of 15 miles, and would prove a valuable feeder to the Pennsylvania.

Railroad Notes.

Signal Engineer Gratton of the lines west is making an inspection of his territory.

R. W. Long, commercial agent of the Grand Trunk at Buffalo, has been made division freight agent at Stratford to succeed J. P. Guy, who becomes manager of the Grand Trunk Dispatch at Detriot.

MAY BE A CARNEGIE MAN.

The Victim of Murder in Missouri Thought to Be J. W. Wilkins.

HAYTI, MO., June 3.—(Special.)—J. W. Wilkins, Carnegie, Pa., is inscribed on a memorandum book feund today near the scene of the murder last Monday of a man whose identity is unknown. The authorities regard the book as a clue which will probably lead to identification. The corpse was identified yesterday as that of Rafe McBride of this town, but today Mr. McBride appeared on the scene.

Shortly before the discovery of the murder the victim had left a grip containing clothing at the Stephen Mercantile company's store. A mob of citizens searching the surrounding country threatens to lynch the murderer if he is caught, and an officer who, today went to East Capogirardeau, Ills., to get a one-legged man who arrived there on suspicion, has been warned not to bring him here.
